Priorities set on 12 projects

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
Priority ratings of 12 Quad-City area improvement projects for which financing will be sought under the federal Community Development Act were determined here Tuesday in a meeting of the District Two Community Development Committee headed by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler.

The projects, for which a total first-year grant of $218,842 is expected from Madison County, which will administer the program, will be included in a district application which must be filed with the Madison County Development Advisory Committee tomorrow.

The $218,842 designated for the Quad-City area will be allocated to improvements projected by the municipalities of Granite City, Venice, Madison and Ponton Beach, and by Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau Townships during the first year of the three-year development plan.

Amounts allocated for the first year are expected to approximately triple for the second and third years of the program.

First-year allocations include $123,746 for Granite City, $21,548 for the city of Madison, $14,320 for the city of Venice and $7,490 for Ponton Beach.

Nameoki Township is scheduled to receive $35,707; Chouteau Township, $12,247; and Venice Township $3,681.

These entities make up District Two of the Madison County program. There are five districts in the county, each preparing its own program of improvements. All districts are to file their completed programs with the county committee by tomorrow so that the county may prepare its overall grant application for filing with the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council not later than Feb. 24.

First priority on the Quad-City area program was given plans for providing ambulance service in the City of Venice. Under this plan, the city would assume costs of ambulance service in instances in which persons needing such service are unable to pay, either by insurance or other means. The program is estimated to cost between $1,000 and $3,000.

Given second priority is a surface drainage program at Ponton Beach at a cost of $12,000.

Other priorities were determined in the following order:

Construction of a Community Center building by Chouteau Township at a cost of $12,000.

Fire protection for Nameoki Township, $20,500.

Urban renewal program by the City of Madison, $10,000.

Fire protection for Venice Township, $11,000.

Phase One study for sanitary sewer reconstruction in Granite City, $80,000.

Engineering study for construction of an overpass between Downtown Granite City and West Granite City, $40,000.

Revolving loan program by the City of Madison in which money would be loaned for home improvements, $12,900.

A program to provide city water services to areas not now in water districts in Nameoki Township, $21,500.

Local street improvements in Ponton Beach, amount not listed.

And a revolving loan program for the City of Venice, similar to the Madison plan, $11,000.

The county committee is to meet Tuesday, Feb. 11, at 10 a.m. in the County Board room at the courthouse in Edwardsville to finalize its countywide project list.

After the county program is drafted, a public hearing will be held Feb. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the County Board room.

The Madison County program and application for funds will be reviewed by the East-West Gateway Council for compliance with the overall plan.

Handcuff robbery victims

Two armed robbers, who police believe may have been a father and son, stole three wallets, a small amount of cash, jewelry worth $7,400 and an auto from J. M. Motors, 2310 Nameoki Road, at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Police were told that four men, including the owner of the used car lot, Jerry Myatt, were inside the office when two men approached, walking across the car lot from Lincoln Avenue.

As they reached the office, the older man displayed a .45 caliber automatic pistol and said, "This is a stickup. Lay down on the floor face down."

The four men complied, the robbers produced four sets of handcuffs. The victims' hands were handcuffed behind them. The gunman then took Myatt's wallet, his $600 wristwatch and his diamond ring worth $6,800, police were told.

They took the wallet from the rear pocket of Dale Boyd of the 2700 block of Marshall Avenue, containing $12, and the wallet of Jerry Warren, also of the 2700 block of Marshall Avenue which had no money in it.

A tobacco pouch was removed from the rear pocket of Dale Boyd of the 2200 block of Orville Avenue and was thrown on the floor.

The gunman then cut all the telephone wires in the office and told the younger man, "Go out and see if the keys are in the Lincoln." Speaking to the victims, he said, "You fellows stay on the floor and nobody will get hurt."

The victims said the older man spoke with a southern accent and used the words "boy" and "son" several times while talking to the younger man.

The two then left in Myatt's 1973 auto, driving slowly north on Nameoki Road and west on Lincoln Avenue. Police were notified and located the auto abandoned in the parking lot at

Proceed with Stearns sewer

A contract for reconstruction of the Stearns Avenue sewer in the vicinity of Boyle and Spaulding avenues—one of the city's oldest and most severe sewer breaks—was awarded by the Granite City Council Monday night to the C. D. Peters Construction Co.

The contract was approved on a total low bid of $96,800 made up of a base bid of $75,845 and a bid of $20,955 as an alternate for additional work that may prove necessary as the sewer rebuilding continues.

The total bid is $30,890 more than the estimate of $68,000 on the basis of which the U. S. government's Flood Disaster Assistance Administration has agreed to finance the repair work.

The FDAA already has advanced $34,000 of the anticipated cost. Mayor Paul Schuler said the agency also has indicated it will increase the $68,000 allotment of disaster aid if the job cannot be done for that amount.

The Stearns Avenue sewer break developed in December 1973 and has required constant by-pass pumping 24 hours a day since the break occurred, according to Street Superintendent Lionel Portell.

The addition of alternate bids to the base bids resulted from the fact that contractors have no idea as to the extent of the project until dewatering processes permit workers to reach the sewer break. The government will authorize no disaster aid for projects repaired or reconstructed on cost-plus contracts, the mayor emphasized.

Expand nuclear medicine in GC

A new machine, called a nuclear gamma camera, has been installed in the X-ray Department at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The nuclear gamma camera is used for scanning the brain, thyroid, lung, liver, bone, spleen, kidney or almost any part of the body, a spokesman said.

The machine enables technologists to tell more about body functioning and body structure. In a lung scan, for instance, information can be received about the blood supply since the blood is carrying a previously injected material.

One of the biggest advantages of the nuclear gamma camera is speed. With the pressing of a button, pictures can be taken from one to 64 frames per film. Instant snapshots also can be taken.

The speed of the camera is especially helpful in terms of increased patient load, or if being still for a long period of time is a problem.

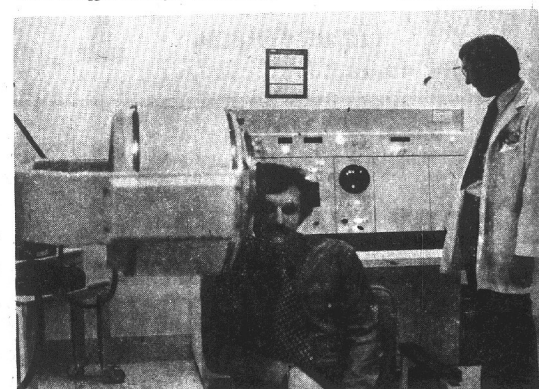

In comparison with the x-ray machine, the nuclear gamma camera can, for example, pick up bone lesions nine months sooner.

Another advantage of the machine is patient position. It enables body areas to be viewed from any angle.

Parkview pupils aid APA shelter

A practical adaptation of a pet care study program was undertaken by fourth grade pupils at Parkview School, who decided to collect pet food and other supplies and donate the items to the animal shelter operated by the Quad-City Association for Protection of Animals.

Pupils of Mrs. Sandy DeMoulin, a Parkview teacher, visited the APA shelter during the weekend. The facility is located on the grounds of the Granite City Army Installation.

Mrs. Connie Becerra, shelter supervisor, accepted the children's donations, which included bedding, food, feeding bowls, sanitary litter and similar items.

The shelter facility is operated by the local APA group, a non-profit organization without outside sources of funding.

Mrs. DeMoulin said her students are studying the care and feeding of pets, thereby learning humane treatment of animals, through a program furnished the schools by the 4-H organization.

Sixteen children were in the group visiting the APA shelter.

Legal question unresolved

The Madison County state's attorney's office has declined to issue an opinion on a question whether Nameoki Township officials acted properly during a closed meeting Nov. 25 when one attorney was dismissed and another was hired.

Town Clerk Douglas Teator requested the legal opinion after the meeting. The Town Board of Auditors later repeated the actions in a public session, in case the previous actions were held unlawful.

In a letter to Teator, Rod Pitts, assistant state's attorney, said his office gives legal opinions only to Madison County officials concerning county business and does not perform legal services for other governmental entities in the county.

Teator was not present when the letter was read at the last Town Board meeting and Herman Hessler served as clerk for the meeting.

Robert Davis, rabies control officer, in a letter to the board, requested a review of his wages and a salary increase. The request was referred to the township's finance committee.

John Cohen, architect, informed the board that he has received revised drawings of the addition now being constructed onto the town hall and he is incorporating changes of the window designs into the working drawings. Cohen also agreed to oversee the construction for compensations not to exceed $600.

A letter from Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency was read in which Whitsell requested an EPA inspection of areas around Horseshoe Lake which the Illinois Department of Conservation is buying and not taking care of.

Whitsell cited "unbelievable environmental problems" created by homes left abandoned. He also noted a frequency of fire calls to the area for houses set on fire by vandals.

The board was told the owner of land under the Route 111 viaduct at Route 152 has granted permission for the township's free Manpower workers to clean up the property. Whitsell said the condition was creating a health hazard.

A letter from the Madison County Circuit Court was read informing the auditors that a woman has filed suit against the township for alleged injuries she received when a vehicle in which she was riding struck a chukhole on Carhill Road.

Township Attorney Carl Runge requested copies of the documents and procedures used in approval of the highway commissioner's bills so he could attempt to establish a system which would be acceptable to everyone.

Whitsell has been refusing to approve two bills totaling more than $1,000 which Highway Commissioner Albert Bell has submitted.

Whitsell contends the methods of having the bills submitted for approval do not meet the requirements of the law.

Whitsell told the board the county superintendent of highways has recommended payment of the two bills in question, but the board withheld action pending study by Runge.

The supervisor reported the county has completed the final draft of its zoning control ordinance and he invited the auditors to review the document.

Work also is continuing on a subdivision control ordinance which would require concrete streets in all subdivisions.

Why should the taxpayers have to pay for constant repairs to streets put in by subdivisions? Whitsell questioned.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, former health officer, told the board that one Dobrey Slough resident had been certified by the state as qualified for flood insurance.

She said many persons have been denied by officials who say seepage does not qualify residents for flood insurance.

She said state officials are going to go to Washington to argue the case for the Dobrey Slough residents who have been denied the insurance.

Assistant police chief is planned in Madison

By WALTER STRANGE

Press-Record Staff Writer

An ordinance reorganizing the Madison Police department was enacted by the City Council at its Tuesday meeting.

The new ordinance established the office of chief of police, and creates the new office of assistant chief of police. It also provides for four sergeants and seven patrolmen, and permits appointment of special police, as needed, at the discretion of the mayor and police chief.

The ranks of captain and lieutenant are eliminated by the measure.

According to Mayor Mike Sasyk this will not eliminate nor change the status of any current officers as the department presently does not have a lieutenant, and Captain Edward Zabotka has indicated he may retire soon.

The appointment to the newly-created position of assistant chief, according to the ordinance, will be made by the mayor with the approval of the council. The assistant chief may be appointed from the existing police force, regardless of rank, or can be any legally qualified resident and elector within the city.

Mayor Sasyk noted that of the seven patrolmen provided in the ordinance, one is a juvenile officer and two work as detectives.

Mayor Sasyk noted that of the seven patrolmen provided in the ordinance, one is a juvenile officer and two work as detectives.

Mayor Sasyk said that council members that representatives of Update, a development firm of Greenville, met last week with the Madison Community Development Committee would like to employ the firm to assist Madison in improving the business district, the mayor said. As a result, arrangements were made for a presentation by the firm before the council at its next meeting, so that the council could make a recommendation as to whether the firm should be hired.

Mayor Sasyk reported that Aldermen Richard Kisser and Donald Royles, both of the Second Ward, met Monday with Nameoki Township auditors concerning township payment for services that are being given by the city to the township.

Sasyk said Madison has been assuming the cost of fire calls into the incorporated area of the township and has been maintaining the traffic light at Sixth Street and Cambridge Avenue.

Kisser said, "We had what you would call a preliminary meeting to point out the services the city is providing for non-residents of Madison and that is expensive. I feel that the township officials are receptive to their responsibilities. We will meet again in the near future to come up with some definite financial arrangements with the township."

In response to an inquiry by Kisser, the mayor said a resident of Madison Avenue who had been repairing cars on the street has moved the cars onto a lot.

Mayor Sasyk reported that the Illinois Terminal Railroad will begin working on railroad crossings on State and Iowa streets and Grand avenue between 13th and 14th streets next week.

"They will block one street at a time during normal working hours while they are repairing the crossings," the mayor said. "I believe they will start with the State street crossing. When they get one repaired they will then move to another."

In other action, the council authorized the Easter Seal Society to make collections in the city March 21, 22 and 23, and approved bills totaling $28,441 for the period of Jan. 8 to Jan. 23.

Howlett to speak here

Michael J. Howlett, Illinois secretary of state, will speak at noon on Tuesday, March 11 in the Nameoki Recreation Center at a luncheon sponsored by the Granite City Rotary Club.

Dr. George T. Wilkins Sr., program chairman for the meeting said that an invitation is being extended by the GC Rotary to all members of area service clubs.

File drug charges

Thomas Inman, 23, of 4065 Bruene Drive, Pontoon Beach, was arrested by Granite City police at Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues at 1:30 p.m. Monday and charged with unlawful possession of cannabis and unlawful possession of a controlled substance.

Officers alleged that in the Illinois Division of Unemployment Compensation Office, Inman acted in a suspicious manner and when asked if he was hiding anything he displayed a bag of what is believed to be marijuana. Officers said they searched him and found two pills in a container in his pocket.

Weldon Burch named to police board

Weldon Burch, 2518 Iowa St., was appointed by Mayor Paul Schuler Monday night as the third member of the Granite City Board of Police and Fire Commissioners.

Burch fills the vacancy on the three-man board created by the resignation of George Becker, former chairman of the fire and police board, who moved to Pittsburgh Jan. 1 to accept a position on the national staff of the United Steelworkers of America.

The City Council "regretfully" accepted a letter of resignation from Becker before the mayor announced his appointment of Burch, in which the council concurred unanimously.

Other members of the board are Elmer Miller, now chairman, and Homer "Cal" Pendleton, secretary.

Burch's term will expire April 30, 1976. Pendleton's term expires April 30 this year, while Miller was reappointed last year to a three-year term that expires April 30, 1977.

Burch is employed in the hot strip rolling department at Granite City Steel and is a former president of Local 67 of the United Steelworkers. He also served as treasurer of the local. He also is a former Democratic precinct committeeman.

Berning was treated for a contusion to his right knee and an injury to his back. X-rays were taken and he was released.

Crowley was admitted to the hospital with a contusion to his forehead. X-rays of his skull and spine were taken.

The bid by the Peters firm was the lowest of three received by the City Council's Street and Alley committee at 4:30 p.m. Monday at the office of City Clerk Robert Stevens.

Other bids were:
G. H. Sternberg & Co., base bid of $114,803 and alternate bid of $31,970 for total bid of $146,773.

Collinsville Construction Co., base bid of $114,000 and alternate bid of $45,000 for total bid of $159,000.

Council members urged that work on the sewer project be started as soon as possible because that work must be completed before a final audit will be made of other reconstruction projects eligible for federal assistance. The sooner the Stearns Avenue sewer is rebuilt, the sooner federal funds will become available, officials said.

The council Monday night also referred to the City Plan Commission petitions for an annexation of two residential properties. Requesting annexation were Charles W. and Janice Kohl, 2340 Gary Ave., and Daniel and Diane Trotts, 2292 Gary Ave.

ning pattern in this area. Madison County has been told it will receive a total of $7 million for the Community Development program over the three-year period on the basis of population figures of the 1970 census.

The District Two committee, in addition to the projects specified in its program, also will apply for a fund with which to pay a local share of $7,000 to participate in a senior aides program sponsored by the Belleville Area College. The senior aides program provides employment for persons 55 or older in civic and community jobs. The funds sought for this project will be requested from an account set aside by the county to finance special projects.

MITCHELL BURGLARY

Horns worth about $700 were stolen from the home of William Elkins, 696 Thorngate Drive, Mitchell, Ill. It was reported at 3:20 p.m. Monday. Taken were four shotguns, five boxes of ammunition, a clock radio, a television and a stereo and two speakers. A front window screen was removed and the window opened to gain entry. The house was ransacked.

Faster handling of aid checks pledged

As of last October, 19.4 per cent of population in St. Clair County and 7.8 per cent of the population in Madison County was receiving assistance, compared with the 9.2 per cent of the state population on aid.

Trainer outlined improvements undertaken by the department during recent months in his discussions with the county staffs. These include:

1. Increasing the responsibilities of all regional directors by having them report directly to the state aid director in keeping with the department's policy of "introducing accountability at all levels in the agency."
2. Reviewing staffing patterns and physical facilities of all local offices to determine whether caseloads are at a manageable level and that physical facilities offer efficient service in a clean, comfortable atmosphere.
3. Reducing the backlog of unpaid medical bills and instituting bill payment within 15 days after receipt through improved use of computers and administrative staff.
4. Revising the Categorical Assistance Manual to replace the cumbersome and often outdated manual in use since 1961. The new manual is contained in two loose-leaf volumes color-coded to allow easy access to department policy and procedure.
5. Developing a streamlined Emergency Assistance Program that permits an emergency aid check to be mailed to a recipient in need the same day the assistance is requested by the caseworker. The check can be sent on the day of the request, providing that the caseworker has verified the emergency and contacted Springfield before 11 a.m.
6. Establishing a "career ladder" for all caseworkers to provide them with opportunity for advancement and salary increases based on their new responsibilities.
7. Recovering more support payments from relatives in counties outside of Chicago by hiring 17 specialists who work on basic case preparations for department attorneys.
8. Intensifying efforts to reduce errors leading to ineligible cases overpayments and underpayments—through increased accountability of regional and local office administrators, addition of new caseworkers and introduction of the new policy manual.
9. Completing consolidation of the Cook County Department of Public Aid with the state agency. The department has been reorganized into 23 district offices, either new or remodeled, to provide all aid services in one location. Over 400 new caseworkers have been named in order to reduce the Cook County caseload to a manageable size.
10. In October 1974, the department served 1,028,871 Illinois residents at a cost of over $121 million.

The annual operating budget of the Illinois Department of Public Aid is $1.5 billion.

Unemployment

Opportunities for women included work as a baby-sitter, "go-go" dancer, part-time employee, secretary, nurse and typist.

Other "help wanted" notices this week mentioned a "curb hop," product distributor, clothing salesperson, accountant, programmer-analyst, managerial trainee, computer operator, telephone collector, executive secretary, key punch employee, insurance clerk, data control clerk and fashion show promoter.

One of those encountered at the unemployment office this week was Steve Kraus, 1721 Ferguson Ave.

He was laid off Dec. 6 at the Smith auto frame plant, which has been utilizing only 800 workers in recent weeks and will recall the same number next Monday after this week's shutdown.

The local plant produces frames for medium and large General Motors autos. There has been a national auto sales slump, due in part to uncertainty about the future availability and cost of gasoline.

The job outlook appears bleak to Kraus. He uses good English but smiled and remarked, "There ain't nothing nowhere," when asked to summarize what he has found.

"I've been to about 150 places in a 100-mile radius of here," he estimated.

Kraus has been a victim of layoffs in the automotive field before.

"I was off nine months last year during the gasoline shortage and worked three months. Fortunately, that three months renewed my unemployment compensation eligibility."

"It's hard to get by on the unemployment checks with car payments and house payments, but at least it is something."

"I don't know how long until it runs out, but I'm going to be in bad shape if I don't have a job by then."

Kraus said he generally has been disappointed by the types of positions available through the Illinois State Employment Service, although he continues to seek a job through the service. It shares the Cleveland Bldg. offices.

"Many of the jobs are offering about $2 an hour and you just can't get by with today's prices at $2 per hour."

"I was making almost $6 an hour when I was working, and I'm going to have to find a job that pays at least half of that if I'm going to get by."

Convinced by his findings that the outlook for getting a job is poor, Kraus said he will keep trying to find one.

In the meantime, he will continue to be one of those who stand in line—either waiting to talk to state unemployment and employment counselors or to the personnel staffs of business firms.

St. Bernard sparks pet adoption clinic

A purebred short-haired St. Bernard will star as "Pet of the Month" at Saturday's adoption clinic sponsored by the Association for Protection of Animals (APA).

Other animals to be offered for adoption include a full-blooded basket hound, a pure white standard poodle-terrier mix, several general purpose mixed breeds and a few cats and kittens.

Responsible persons may adopt a pet between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday at the APA adoption headquarters outside the Grant City store in Nameki Village Shopping Center.

Mrs. Connie Becerra, an APA officer, said Saturday will mark the final date that adoption clinics will be held at the Grant City store.

The local non-profit humane group has been asked to find a new location for its 6-by-8-foot metal shed which serves as adoption headquarters, she explained.

The APA maintains a permanent shelter for animals on the grounds of the Granite City Army installation and uses the small metal shed as an adoption site only.

The short-haired St. Bernard is a recognized show dog breed and has the usual white and tan markings. The "Pet of the Month" is a large 2-year-old female who weighs about 125 pounds and is very friendly, Mrs. Becerra said.

The purebred basket hound pup for adoption is a 2-year-old male who weighs about 50 pounds. He is very gentle and loves children, but he is an outside dog and needs a fenced yard, the APA officer said.

Another animal to be offered a local family is GIGI, a half standard poodle and half terrier female, about 2 years old. She is a pretty dog with pure white poodle fur, Mrs. Becerra reported.

A special home is being sought for a purebred wirehaired terrier, about 5 years old, which has an ailment similar to controllable epilepsy in humans.

The animal's condition is controllable with medication, which is not expensive, Mrs. Becerra explained. She said the female dog has suffered only one attack within the past month while under APA care and before its ailment was diagnosed by a veterinarian.

Those adopting a pet from the APA are asked to contribute a nominal fee, which is used toward the cost of feeding the animals. The organization receives no other outside funds.

To help defray the rising cost of food, the group currently is offering wild bird seed for sale to the public for a $1 donation for each four-pound sack.

APA members will have bird seed available from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, at the adoption site and in the arcade area at Bellemeade Village Shopping Center.

State, General Electric propose new way to utilize high-sulfur coal for power here

Gov. Dan Walker on Wednesday announced the state of Illinois has conditionally agreed to participate with the General Electric Co. in a proposed development and construction of a pressurized, fluidized bed boiler at the Illinois Power Company's Wood River site.

The pilot program would demonstrate the feasibility of converting high-sulfur coal to electricity in an environmentally acceptable manner. Cost of the project is estimated at $100 million.

Gov. Walker said the federal Office of Coal Research would fund at least two-thirds of the project. State funds would be used during the final two phases of the four-phase program.

Gov. Walker said, "General Electric and the state are not alone in this effort."

"Engineering firms, energy producers, the Argonne National Laboratory and other companies from the private sector will work together to develop the potential commercial use of Illinois coal in meeting the nation's energy needs."

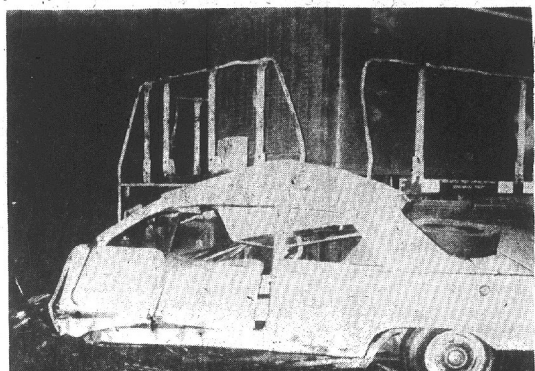

This demonstration plant will benefit people by making possible the opening of additional mines and providing many additional coal-mining

1. A preliminary design to develop a workable process.
2. Technological evaluation and architectural engineering for construction of the pilot plant.
3. Construction of the pilot plant if justified by the results of Phases 1 and 2.
4. Operation and testing of the pilot plant and preliminary design for a commercial facility.

Finger said, "General Electric and other companies have studied the new technology for more than a year. The pressurized, fluidized bed process appears sound.

"There is great potential here for national, local and public benefit through the accelerated use of Illinois coal as a fuel for energy generating plants."

CRASH SCENE TODAY. Nyle C. Barker, 23, of 2263 Edison Ave., suffered serious injuries and is in Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, after an auto he was driving collided with a train at 4 a.m. today at the 14th and State Street crossing in Madison.

Damage settlement ok'd

A settlement of $100,000 for damages caused to the East Side Levee and Sanitary District during an explosion in the Alton and Southern railroad yards in 1972 has been reached between levee district officials and the railroad.

The settlement was accepted unanimously by the five members of the levee board in a special meeting Monday afternoon.

The blast which occurred when a tank car making a turn exploded, shattered windows and damaged property within a mile radius of the railroad yards. The levee district gave up McCasland Avenue was damaged beyond use.

Russell Robinson, Granite City member of the levee board, said he will present a motion in the Feb. 5 board meeting that the money be placed in escrow to be used in construction of a new garage on Route 111, probably in Madison County. A proposal to build the garage in Madison County also is being made by Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold, a levee board member. It is reported to have the support of Bernard J. Jack Scoville of National City. At least three votes would be needed to approve the plan.

The district expects to meet its next payroll of approximately $26,000 due Feb. 10, but it has no cash on hand. The board must approve the budget and adopt the tax levy before tax warrants against this year's tax revenue can be issued.

The levee district work force has been cut to approximately 60 employees from a normal complement of about 100, according to levee district officials.

A woman employee of the loan company said two dark complexioned men entered the store and one displayed the knife and demanded all the money. The woman complied and the men left.

Laclede Steel boosts dividend

Paul B. Akin, president of Laclede Steel Company, reported Wednesday in a brief statement of operations, subject to annual audit, that earnings for the fourth quarter were $4,412,000 or $2.67 a share on net sales of $56,285,000, compared to $3,610,000 or $2.15 a share on net sales of $34,704,000 for the same period last year.

Akin said, "Although it is a normal practice to compare these figures with the like periods of a year ago, the 1973-74 comparisons for Laclede Steel can be grossly misleading."

Throughout 1973, our earnings were severely depressed by restrictive profit-control regulations. A September 1973 "special rule" for the steel industry blocked any pass-through of increased costs.

The rule was so severe that Laclede Steel ended the final quarter with a net loss in the month of December 1973. We may thank the fact that we were freed from this yoke for much of 1974."

President Akin further said, "Laclede's annual net earnings of $1,080,000 are more than three times larger than our 1969 record."

"Our net earnings as a percentage of sales are a little over

There has been a reduction in the allocation from the United Way from $72,000 to $60,000 over the past five years.

Program attendance began to drop in 1974 after a dip in 1973.

Rough Riders no pushover but Trojans prevail 72-70

By KEN THOMPSON
Press-Record Staff Writer

Little children rolled on the floor with joy, and Madison High School game fans gave a standing ovation to Trojan Rudolph Bradley Tuesday night after Madison gained a 72-70 victory over the Roosevelt Rough Riders.

A pair of charity tosses by Bradley with seven seconds left in the final period decided the game. Madison now has a 14-3 record.

Turnovers hurt the visitors from the start. Ten Roosevelt turnovers in the opening quarter helped Madison garner an 18-12 lead.

The Trojans held a 33-27 margin at halftime, and stretched their lead to 52-44 going into the final period.

MHS was outscored by Roosevelt 26-20 in the last quarter on the strength of Paul Durrer's eight out of 12 charity tosses.

Durrer fouled out of the contest with more than three minutes left. He led Roosevelt in pointmaking with 26.

Bradley had a game high total of 28 points, marking the 14th contest for Madison in which he has tallied 20 or more points during the 1974-75 season.

The 5-2 senior hit on 11 of 23 field goal attempts and was six for six from the charity stripe.

The Rough Riders moved within one point of Madison several times in the final period. Their key move came with 24 seconds left in the game when Joe Laks put the ball in the net. The two-pointers made it a 70-69 ball game, with the host Trojans still ahead.

Seconds later, Madison threw the ball away on a bad pass, giving the visitors an inbound play.

Roosevelt's Bob Healey took the pass and dribbled around the court, using up seconds to give his team the final shot and a possible one-point victory if he could score a field goal.

Driving down the middle for a layup attempt with 10 seconds showing on the clock, Healey was fouled and put the contest into a 70-70 deadlock with a free throw.

Healey's second toss failed to connect and Madison's Bradley took the rebound.

Bradley was fouled on the recovery and provided the two-point victory margin.

Overall, Madison made good 30 of 73 field goal tries and 12 of 17 foul shots.

Roosevelt was a hot 27 of 49 from the field and 16 of 25 at the charity line.

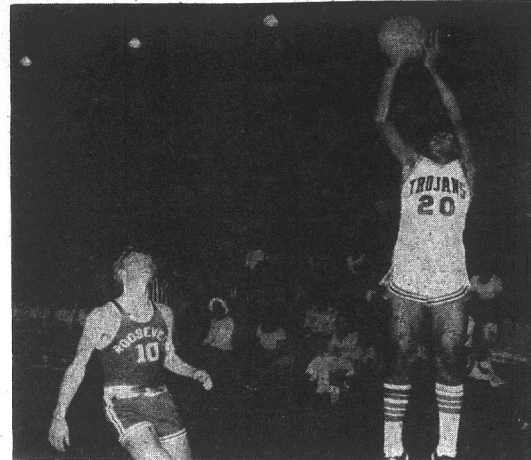

The visitors committed the fewest fouls, 15-22, but made by far the most turnovers, 32-15.

Madison edged Roosevelt 33-25 in rebounding.

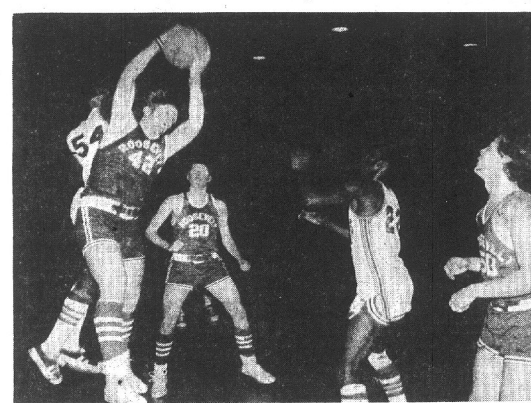

Other than Bradley, scoring for Madison were: Ron Jones with 14 points, Darryl Franklin 11, Emmett Timmons eight, Leroy Booker six and Mike Williams, five.

Corrie helps spark Venice in conquest at Freeburg school

"If I had to name an outstanding individual," commanding Freeburg's Gary Hearne, "it would have to be Red Devil Jeff Corrie."

Hearne made the comment after his school had bowed, for the second time during the 1974-75 basketball season to Venice 58-48 Tuesday at Freeburg.

Venice is now 15-1, having lost only to Madison early in the season.

Corrie, a 5-9 senior, tallied 18 points against the Midgets, and Hearne notes that 10 of Corrie's points in the third period helped give Venice an insurmountable margin.

Venice led 11-6, 28-15 and 42-28 at the quarters and was outscored 20-17 in the final period. Both teams played a bit sluggishly.

The Red Devils shot 47 per cent from the floor, making good 20 of 39 field goal attempts, and Venice was three of five from the foul line.

Freeburg hit 22 of 58 from the field and four of 16 from the charity stripe.

Venice committed the most fouls, 15-9, but had the fewest turnovers, 15-16.

Venice led 29-23, in rebounding.

Two players scored in double figures for Freeburg: Sophomore John Kramer with 14 and Ron Menze with 12.

Venice's season-leading scorer Mike Henry matched Corrie's 18 points in the contest. Henry was guarded closely by 6-2 Greg Hughes.

Reggie Gardner had 14 points, James Turner three, and Algie Crawford, Mike Logan and James Crowder, two points apiece.

Wrestling Warriors (17-1), Steelers (14-1) will clash

A long-awaited GCHS North versus GCHS South dual wrestling meet promises to provide Granite City fans with the ultimate in the excitement and tension that goes with sport when the two strong teams meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in South's gymnasium.

For years, South has been considered one of the most talented mat teams in this region, and state. But South's veteran mentor, William Schmitt, apparently believes that Friday's meet could go either way, although he, of course, expects and hopes for a South victory.

"North is riding high right now with a 14-1 record, backed by some real talent," he notes. South has a 17-1 dual-meet record thus far.

Steelers Coach Walt Whitaker is equally reluctant to name a possible winner.

"South has changed its lineup around so much in other meets that we don't even know who will wrestle whom."

"All I can say is that we will have our best ready to meet the athletes they send against us," Whitaker concludes.

The tentative individual weight-class pairings, North freshman tallied first and South second (with dual-meet records shown) are:

98 pounds—Keith Whelan (18-1), both Jim Casper (18-1) or Lindy McDaniels (4-3); 105—Matt McCullough (18-3) vs. Woody Halbrook (22-6-1)

112—Todd Davis (7-7-1) vs. Steve Hamlin (20-2); 119—Eric Schmitt (10-5) vs. Kevin Page (23-4-1)

126—Jim Starling (20-4) vs. Jim Carmody (8-6); 132—Charles Taylor (13-7-1) vs. Glen Moore (7-5-1)

138—Terry Johnson (10-3) vs. Ed Peter (4-0); 145—Dave Whitsett (21-3) vs. Brian Ganes (7-8)

155—Dave Harrison (9-4-1) vs. Steve Avevian (12-9); 167—Jim Stanton (3-5) vs. Brian Wilson (23-0)

185 pounds—Dave Hamilton (8-10) vs. Jerry Patterson (15-1); and heavyweight—Jim Barker (16-4-1) vs. Mark Naglich (11-14)

Both coaches feel that individual victories, plus wins by North and South matmen over each other in last month's holiday wrestling tournament are meaningless tomorrow "because all the boys have added to their experience since that time."

Schmitt did make one prediction for the meet, saying that whichever school dominates four weight classes will win.

"We'll win overall."

Hospital care here aided career of Cougar athlete

Wayne Allen Heinrich, the super-substitute of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball squad who hails from Odin, Ill., is a young man with great determination and an almost overwhelming desire to play the hardwood sport.

The third-highest scoring prep ace in Illinois during his senior year at Odin, where he led the Eagles of Coach Ken Dillingham to the regional tournament title game before bowing to Okawville's great team, the smooth playing Heinrich was one of the most sought-after high school basketball players that year.

Creighton University of Omaha won the contest, and Heinrich made the varsity squad, playing a great deal his freshman season.

In his second year, his playing time declined, so he informed his coaches at Creighton that he wanted to return to Illinois. They helped him make contacts at Western Illinois U., Murray State in Kentucky and SIUE.

Due to NCAA regulations, Heinrich had to be "red-shirted," but Coach Jim Dudley liked what he saw when Heinrich worked out with the squad. And he loomed important in the Cougars' future.

Then came a blow which would have crushed many people. He suffered a motorcycle accident in late May when he misjudged a curve on the campus. His left knee and arm crashed into a metal traffic sign.

Said Heinrich: "I was going too fast. I didn't realize I was going as fast as I was, and the cycle slipped on the gravel and I hit the sign." The sign read: "35 miles per hour."

He explained: "I got up and walked about 10 feet, as I started to fall, Leon Wright, who was following me in his car, caught me and carried me to our apartment." Wright, forward and captain of last season's 19-7 Cougar team, was Heinrich's roommate at Tower Lake.

Wright, noticing that Heinrich's left hand and left knee were bleeding profusely, called an ambulance and the injured cager was rushed to Granite City's St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Although unknown to Heinrich, there was a period of nearly three weeks that the doctors attending him feared that his left leg would have to be amputated "in order to stop the flow of the wound's bleeding."

Then, after about eight to 10 weeks of recuperation, including one full week in bed, and four weeks at home in Odin, Heinrich came back to SIUE to start his long fight back and the career he still felt he had.

First man he contacted, after talking with Coach Dudley, was the Cougars' doughty little trainer Wilfred "Bud" Buddell. Buddell, who believes there is practically no problem which a proper program of physical therapy can't rectify, outlined for Heinrich a schedule that would have terrified most athletes, even a heavyweight champion preparing for a multi-million-dollar defense of his crown.

That summer, says Heinrich, "was pure luck, but gradually I could feel the strength coming back. The daily three-mile runs, which Bud ran with me, were especially tough...but oh, so beneficial."

He worked on the weight machine, too, stretching my knee and building strength in it. After all, my knee had to be stretched straight out for eight weeks.

At the end of the summer, he thought he was ready to play basketball. But, when Dudley started drills that October, he quickly realized that he wasn't ready.

Since he and his parents had no personal insurance, the task of paying $6,000 in medical bills fell on them. "I got a job at Clark's Oil in Edwardsville, and my parents helped and we paid everything off," Heinrich says matter-of-factly.

However, the year he was recuperating wasn't completely lost: he played intramural, St. Louis "V" ball and in the Alton City League.

Still afraid that he wasn't ready to play, Heinrich didn't try out for the squad in October. But shortly after the Cougars' loss to Southeast Indiana University at New Albany, the JV's played UMSL's junior varsity at the Florissant Valley gym, and Heinrich had a job selling tickets for the Castello Ushering Service.

Ready every, SIUE junior varsity coach and assistant to Dudley, noticed him at the game and spoke to him afterward about "coming out for the varsity."

Heinrich now smiles wryly and shyly about how he felt at being asked to come back. "It was nice to know that someone hadn't forgotten me, and so I said, 'sure.'"

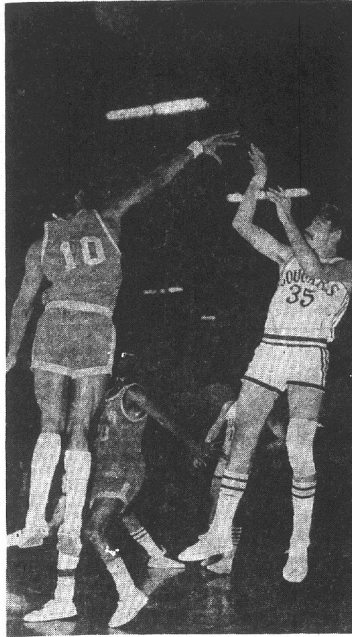

He's only averaging a little over five points per game, but in the straight battle at Edwardsville, Ind., against Indiana State University, won by the Cougars 63-74, he came through with timely points. He hit on two of two field goals and two free throws.

He's used primarily to spell freshman Vince Barnett and Dan Donahue, both of whom have just turned 18 and lack the stamina of the older (22 years old) Heinrich.

For the rest of the season, there have been definite signs that Heinrich could begin hitting at the 20.5 points per game he racked up his senior year at Odin High.

If he does, it wouldn't surprise his teammates. He has the eye and the moves, and he's proved that he has the determination.

One final thought by Heinrich: The veteran cager says about his much younger colleagues: "This team, these fellows, really don't realize just how good they are and how well Coach Dudley has brought them along as a tough-playing unit. They should get a post-season bid if there is any justice left," he predicts.

SUPER-SUB. Wayne Allen Heinrich (35) is shown shooting the ball for the SIUE basketball Cougars. The third-highest scorer among Illinois high school players during his senior year at Odin, he has been averaging more than five points a game for SIUE, hitting half of his field goal attempts and 85 per cent of his free throws.

Nameoki being asked to propose new capital improvement projects

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

Nameoki Township will apply for state grants for nearly $200,000 worth of improvements under a new program being offered by the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs.

The Town Board of Auditors was informed in a letter Monday night that the Department of Local Government Affairs is conducting a survey of the needs of governmental entities on work which is planned but has not been started.

State grants will be available for the work, it was disclosed. Louis Whitsell, township supervisor, told the board he feels grants could assist the township in several drainage and road programs. He said the application had to be completed by Feb. 5.

The board voted to apply for grants on all programs which would meet the state's guidelines.

Whitsell said he still is completing the application and is taking suggestions for projects which should be included.

Drainage projects already on the application include the Parkway Estates drainage program for which a $49,660 bid has been received; a program to drain the Barnhart area, a division which should cost about $2,600; improved drainage in the Doherty Slough area costing about $30,000.

Also on the application is a plan to widen Stratford Lane, costing about $80,000 and an extension to Arlington Road near Arlington Heights for about $40,000.

Whitsell said he and Township Highway Commissioner Albert Bell also are to discuss whether a program to widen Bern Avenue should be included.

Whitsell said full details of the program have not been released, but it is expected the township will have to provide a portion of the cost of each program with the remainder being paid by the state grant.

The program is believed to be a portion of Gov. Dan Walker's proposed $4.5 million capital development program.

The town board also was told that purchasing and equipping a new rescue truck has been selected as the township's top priority under the Community Development grant program.

Whitsell said the township's application for funds in that program include $15,500 for a new truck and part of the equipment.

Madison County Defense officials have agreed to provide matching funds for the rescue equipment portion to complete the furnishing of the truck.

Also in the application are $4,000 for a fund to pay fire departments answering fire calls outside of their beat areas, and $15,207 for engineering and planning of a program to extend city water services to some areas of the township not now served.

Whitsell said the funds are being distributed on the basis of population with the allocation based on $3.06 per resident, a total of $35,707 for the township. He disagreed with the population figure being used from the 1970 census of 11,669, saying "We had a 17,942 population in the 1970 census."

He said Pontoon Beach and East Madison residents receive separate allocations so they must be removed, reducing the figure to 14,117 residents for the township.

He said he has been attempting to get an explanation for the smaller figure being used, but has had no success.

East Madison has 577 persons and Pontoon Beach has 2,448, according to the figures being used.

Pontoon Beach conducted a later census showing 3,128 persons in the village, but the program uses 1970 figures. "So Pontoon Beach is getting gyped out of a lot too," Whitsell told the board.

He said he would continue his attempts to have the township's population figure adjusted to 14,117, increasing the township's allocation to $43,198.

The program is a three-year plan and the allocation is to increase to more than $9 per person in the second and third years, Whitsell noted.

The board read a letter from Hubert Hawkins, 2600 Angela Drive, asking that he be considered for appointment to the town board when Auditor Norman Hessler resigns.

Hessler has notified the board he intends to resign when a suitable replacement can be appointed.

Norfolk and Western Railway earnings up

In spite of a 28-day coal miners' strike in November and December, the Norfolk and Western Railway Company reported Monday in New York City that consolidated net income increased 25 percent to $24.5 million, or $2.35 a primary share, for the fourth quarter of 1974, from $19.6 million, or $1.87 a share for the last three months of 1973.

For the twelve months of 1974, NW reported record high consolidated earnings of $134 million, or $10.63 a share versus $88.9 million, or $6.55 a primary share—an increase of 64 percent. The previous high annual consolidated net income of $74.9 million, or $6.07 a share, was established in 1966.

John P. Fishwick, president and chief executive officer, told the financial community NW estimated that fourth quarter gross revenues were reduced about $21 million because of the miners' strike. This was based on loss of 90,000 loads of coal during the 28-day period, he added.

The 12-month figures for 1974 reflect net income increases of $15.4 million, or $1.28 a primary share, that are attributable to the sale of property in Norfolk, Va., to the U. S. Navy last January, and of $2 million, or 19 cents a share, for a land sale in Portsmouth, Va., last October by Virginia Holding Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary.

All figures are on a generally accepted accounting principles basis and reflect the Interstate Commerce Commission's revision ordered Aug. 28, 1974, of its accounting rules to require all carriers to adopt interperiod tax allocation in accounting for income taxes effective Jan. 1, 1974.

The difference between the figures on a GAAP basis as recorded under prior ICC accounting rules has been regularly indicated in all of NW's annual reports to shareholders and in the quarterly interim financial reports.

NW consolidated operating revenues for the fourth quarter of 1974 were $264.4 million versus $233.7 million in 1973. Expenses for the quarter were $102 million, up from $106.1 million a year earlier.

For the 12 months, consolidated operating revenues were $1.1 billion, compared with $902.5 million in 1973. Expenses totaled $749.1 million last year against $657.8 million in 1973.

The parent company's cash and temporary investments at the close of business Dec. 31 total $172.7 million compared with $118.3 million at the end of 1973. The company's working capital was $134.1 million versus $97.1 million on Dec. 31, 1973.

County invests jail bond funds at profit

Madison County Treasurer George Musso this week completed investing all proceeds from a $4 million bond issue for a new county jail in banks throughout the county at interest rates of 7 per cent to 7 1/2 per cent per year.

Collapses after pushing burning car from garage

Harold Bone, 45, of 2546 Ivy Lane, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital after he was overcome by smoke and suffered chest pains after pushing his burning car from his garage at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

It was reported that Bone had tried unsuccessfully to start his car and had left it in the garage. His son came inside a short time later and reported the car was on fire.

He called the fire department, pushed the car from the garage, and then collapsed. An ambulance was called and he was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital suffering smoke inhalation and chest pains.

The Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department extinguished the blaze which caused $4,500 damage to the auto. An electrical short was believed to have been the cause of the fire. There was no damage to the house or garage. Witnesses were on the scene 45 minutes.

Attempt to cut hole in roof of drug store

Phillip Sheridan, owner of Sherrin Drugs, 2301 State St., reported at 10 a.m. Wednesday that he found a rope hanging from the roof on the north side of the pharmacy and discovered someone had attempted to cut a hole in the roof of the building.

Officers believe someone lashed a vent pipe to the roof, threw the excess rope over a set of power lines and climbed up the rope onto the roof.

A hole about six inches by four inches in size and about one-half inch deep had been cut in the roof, but had not gone through the roofing. Entry was not gained.

The monthly immunization clinic which normally is conducted at the Tri-Cor Medical building, will be held Saturday in the Wiesman room at St. Elizabeth Hospital from 8 to 10 a.m.

The Wiesman room is located in the first floor of the hospital, near the chapel in the oldest wing of the facility.

Referrals may be made by school nurses, family physicians, according to hospital officials.

Probation ordered

Floyd and Phyllis Caterson, Fairmont, Ill., formerly of Granite City, were sentenced Monday in Madison County Circuit Court to serve two years probation each.

The couple pleaded guilty to a charge against each of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance (amphetamines) and were prepared by the Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

Musso started last week investing the money in interest-bearing accounts after being told that about $50,000 in needed to pay bills due this month, and that bills will total $10,000 to $20,000 per month through about August.

The majority of the money could be invested in long-term accounts, Musso was told after a joint meeting of the County Board's Finance and County Buildings committees during the weekend.

Since the county is paying 6.77 per cent interest on the bond issue, will realize a profit from the investments.

Henry Gabriel, Granite City architect who is designing the new jail, estimated that by September site preparation and construction will boost the bills more than $100,000 per month. By the middle of 1978, the county will have expended about $1.6 million on the project, he believes.

After completion of the jail in 1977, the county will be required to pay all but about $150,000, which may be withheld from the contractors until the county is completely satisfied with the building.

Gabriel warned that the money should be available in as short a time as 18 months, in case the job is completed faster than anticipated.

Using Gabriel's figures, Musso determined how much could be invested in one-year accounts and how much to place in shorter-term accounts.

County Auditor John Kravack assisted in planning the investments.

Numerous banks were contacted to determine the maximum which can be covered by federal deposit insurance for government bonds.

The remainder was invested in government bonds and other interest-bearing programs.

The county received proceeds of the bond sale last week with $37,000 in interest earned on the money while the bonds were being sold and the money held prior to the actual payments to the county.

Money gained from interest in investing the proceeds will be returned to the jail fund, thus keeping the tax levy necessary to support the bond issue as low as possible, Auditor Kravack said.

More than $50,000 in grants are awarded each year through the program. Most career fields are eligible, providing the applicant has a reasonable program approved by an accredited school, Mrs. Haddix said.

Further information concerning BPW scholarship applications may be obtained from Mrs. Haddix, 6 Mercer Drive.

Work on sixteen different projects began during the week, Mrs. Haddix said. The BPW Club in Wood River undertook a $16 million construction and maintenance program. It includes construction of a new petroleum chemical additive plant, addition of a waste heat recovery boiler, and construction of a new refinery unit designed to recover up to 20 tons of sulfur per day from fuel oil. The projects are expected to be completed in 1975.

APEX OIL CO. in Granite City completed construction of a new 1,600-sq.-ft. miller building and loading racks at the Tri-City Port and also undertook construction of two 4,200,000 gallon fuel oil storage tanks.

Upon completion of construction this year, Apex will have a total of 31 million gallons of fuel oil storage capacity at the local port.

Additional expansion is contemplated. B-LINE SYSTEMS, INC. in Highland expanded its operations through construction of a new 6,000 sq. ft. office facility. The new building provides additional space for both accounting and data processing functions. B-Line manufacturers fabricated steel and aluminum products for the electrical industry and expects employment to eventually reach 200.

GRANITE CITY STEEL CO. expanded its steelmaking complex in 1974 through construction of a $300,000 dispensary and new receiving and loading docks. GRIFTH DISTRIBUTING CO. completed construction of a new 12,700-sq.-ft. building located near Civic Memorial Airport at Bethalto. MAL LANDFILL CORP. undertook construction of a $500,000 paper recycling plant adjacent to its landfill north of East St. Louis. When completed, the new 22,300-sq.-ft. facility is to employ up to 50 persons. Further expansion of both plant and staff are anticipated.

METAL SERVICES, INC., a division of Piper Industries, expanded its physical plant by 50 per cent in 1974 through purchase and occupancy of an adjacent 40,000-sq.-ft. building at Fox Industrial Park in Madison. The move has resulted in a doubling of production capacity.

As part of a multi-million dollar expansion program extending through 1980, OLD CORP. in East Alton completed installation of a new $2.5 million rolling mill in 1974. The added capacity will enable the firm to meet demands for copper alloy, copper strip and clad metal in strip form.

FEIN, INC., undertook a multi-million dollar modernization program at its East St. Louis facility. While no new buildings are planned, $3 million will be spent on additional environmental controls and $1 million on other improvements. The project also includes revision of its existing buildings and installation of new equipment.

REYNOLDS METALS CO. opened an aluminum recycling center in Belleville. The new center serves as the hub in mobile recovery program for the St. Louis region. Aluminum is shredded at the Belleville plant and shipped to company smelters for further processing.

SHELL OIL CO. at Wood River began a series of projects designed to increase crude oil capacity by 30,000 barrels per day. In addition to these projects, the firm undertook construction of an additional 10,000 barrels per day asphalt plant and a 300,000-barrel crude oil storage tank.

Gain in industrial expansion activity

Industrial expansion projects valued at approximately $24 million were undertaken by area industries in 1974, according to a report issued today by the Illinois Metro office in industrial development corporation.

Carl E. Mathias is president, having succeeded William Boyne last week.

Richard Dykes, executive director of the non-profit development corporation, said the expenditures cited represent a 20 per cent increase over like investments made in 1973.

Although the economy has taken a sharp downturn in recent months, Dykes believes that the magnitude of these investments can be considered an expression of long-term confidence in the improved economic situation.

"Certainly this suggests a long-term confidence in the future of this area as well," he said.

About 160 jobs have been created as an immediate result of the projects.

"While this isn't going to make much of a dent in our area's current unemployment situation," he said, "I think the increased production and efficiency to be gained by projects like these will eventually result in major employment increases."

Firm warns against imposter

Officials of Pepsi-Cola Co. warned Quad-City area residents and businessmen today that a confidence artist may be operating in the area.

Student play is being presented

Michel de Ghelderode's farce, "Pantaglieze," will be presented nightly through Saturday at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The performances begin at 8:15 in the Communications Building theater.

Directed by SIUE graduate student Kevin Krazer, Pantaglieze is a 1929 forerunner of the absurdist dramas of the 1940s and '50s. Its subject is a tragicomic revolution unwittingly precipitated by the title character.

The playwright, a Belgian who was unappreciated until after his death, called the play "a depressing vaudeville."

Pantaglieze is a student production of the University Theater. Sets were designed by John Vigna, lighting by Diana Ferreira and costumes by Linda Wigley.

Matthew Sawn, of Rockford, as Pantaglieze and Elesteer Latham, of Edwardsville, as Bamboola head the cast.

COINS, JEWELRY TAKEN
An undetermined amount of jewelry and about four to six coins were stolen from the home of Luch Williams, 2332 Center St., it was reported this week. Glass in a rear door was broken to gain entry.

saying he represents Pepsi. Two incidents have been reported to police of a man wearing a blue Pepsi blazer receiving advance money for promised deliveries. One local confectionery paid the man $47 in advance for an ice-making machine which was never delivered.

The man has offered $5.30 cases of Pepsi for a reduced price of $3.50 and may offer glasses and clocks as inducements to purchase the cola. He does not stress advance payments, but somehow manages to imply that an advance payment would be appreciated.

Pepsi officials stressed that representatives of their company are not allowed to accept any kind of advance payment, including the sales tax.

The imposter has been described as about six feet, 2 inches tall, weighing about 203 pounds and in his 40s.

ILLINOIS...

WITH
JOHN H. KEISER
HISTORIAN
SANGAMON STATE UNIVERSITY

THE LINCOLN IDEALS

Illinois — The Land of Lincoln. We proclaim it on our license plates and call down the semi-sacred name to adorn gift shops, insurance agencies, and cab companies. Politicians wrap themselves in the cloak of the Great Emancipator, and more than a million tourists visit the Lincoln shins each year. Perhaps no other state so strongly identifies with the persona of one man, but we seldom examine thoughtfully the realities of the Lincoln ideal.

Abraham Lincoln was first of all a rural man. He was a farm boy, self-educated, and self-sufficient. He abandoned farm life for law and politics, and chose a small town, Springfield, as his adult home. He rose from humble beginnings to ultimate success by hard work, perseverance, and natural intelligence. His life bespoke the American dream.

As did his death. It was his martyrdom which catapulted Lincoln into instant American sainthood. It sharpened the contrast of good vs. evil, and cast the glow of perfection around the fallen President. Combined with a philosophy of individualism and self-help, historians have found humanity, sympathy, compassion, a loving morality, and an intense sense of duty to be the key forces in Lincoln's character. During the generation following his death, the ghost of Lincoln cast a long shadow over his home state. Biographers squabbled over his past, probed his marriage, his parentage. As life in the state grew increasingly remote from the New Salem cabin and self-education by candlelight, the Lincoln image became a talisman to ward off the fears that accompanied drastic change. Friendship with Lincoln, even if cursory, was a guarantee of a share of the reverence, and "he knew Lincoln" became the definitive phrase and the highest accolade accorded any man in the public eye.

Even as Lincoln was dying in Washington, the environment that nurtured the Lincoln ideal was changing. A vast railroad network, burgeoning industrialization, and a flood of immigrants rapidly established Chicago as a real rival to the farm community as the symbolic capital of Illinois. By the turn of the century, the poor boy striving to make good was more typically a Polish immigrant, sleeping eight to a room in a tenement, and working 12 hours a day in the stockyards. His future was owned by the kings of industry, and his political hopes by the wage boss. The old symbols of the agrarian farmer, the ice factory, the grit of the mine, and the chaos of the city.

Meanwhile in corporate offices, men looked to Lincoln for guidance. Millionaires believed firmly in individualism and especially in self-help. They, and the politicians who accepted Lincoln as a cult hero, selected from the President's life the qualities which justified their adaptation to a new age.

The Lincoln ideals have much to say in our own day. Humanity, compassion, equality of opportunity are needed today as in Lincoln's day. As Illinois attempts to institutionalize those ideals, it will truly become the Land of Lincoln, and it is likely that the man himself will be a fitting subject of study for the foreseeable future.

Seek pollution control in state construction

The state Capital Development Board and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency are working together to assure compliance with pollution control regulations in state building projects.

Staffs of both agencies met during the weekend in Springfield to review building programs and environmental protection regulations.

Land, noise, air, water pollution control and public water supply regulations were discussed at the all-day seminar conducted by the EPA.

Donald R. Le Fevre, executive director of the CDB, said CDB and EPA have overlapping concerns for public safety. Mutual cooperation, he said, demonstrates both good business practice and good sense.

"CDB faces the possibility of doubling its construction workload during the next two years," Le Fevre said.

"Since much of our construction affects, and is affected by, EPA regulations, we need maximum agency-to-agency cooperation."

"This is especially true in the areas of pollution control and environmental protection," Le Fevre said.

Richard H. Briceland, director of the Illinois EPA, said, "We are asking individuals and businesses throughout the state to control their pollution." Briceland said, "and we recognize the fact that state facilities also are possible sources of pollution."

"By working cooperatively with major agencies such as the CDB, both existing and pending future regulations of the EPA can be shared for greater agency efficiencies and more effective pollution control statewide."

Salvation Army aids residents

The Salvation Army has been located in the Quad-City area for over 51 years and still is actively engaged in offering a variety of services to residents and transient persons who may be stranded here, according to a report by Captain Ronald Kerley.

The family welfare program included giving material assistance to 77; food and clothing orders to 105; client interviews to 82; 49 agency consultations for a total of 221 persons who were aided.

Special board meeting today

The Madison School Board will hold a special meeting at 6:30 p.m. today in the board office at 1707 Fourth St., Madison.

On the agenda will be a discussion of a letter from the Civil Rights Division of the United States Attorney General's office regarding Madison school desegregation. The Madison board has been submitting regular semi-annual reports to Judge Robert Morgan of the U.S. District Court in St. Louis as a result of a court order issued in a civil rights suit in 1968. The reports concern the student and faculty racial make-up at each of the Madison schools.

The Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department has requested additional information be supplied before Judge Morgan allows the Madison board to discontinue filing the semi-annual reports. A student hearing also is on the agenda, along with other miscellaneous business.

Lawsuit cites yard mishaps

Curtis E. DuBoise has filed a two-count suit, seeking $100,000 in each count, in Madison County Circuit Court against the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis.

He alleges that on May 26, 1973, he was employed as a track laborer in the railroad's Madison yards and hurt his left knee when a piece of equipment handled by a fellow worker struck him, causing DuBoise to fall.

On Sept. 23, 1974, he says that while working in St. Louis yards he was injured by a truck when he slipped on gravel or dirt in a truck bed and then striking the tailgate of the vehicle.

Negligence is alleged.

Record sales, earnings for National Steel in 1974

National Steel Corporation earned $175,763,654, or $9.44 per share, in 1974, Chairman George A. Stinson said Monday afternoon in Pittsburgh.

Sales and earnings set new records. Production and shipments were slightly below those of 1973.

"Nineteen seventy-four was an especially important year because it proved how this company can perform in a free market," Stinson said.

"The results achieved in the last eight months of the year, and a continuation of higher financial returns than those of the past few years, are essential to position National Steel to undertake a much-needed expansion of its primary steelmaking capacity.

Fourth-quarter earnings of $39,653,154, or $2.13 per share, also were at record levels, but profit margins declined during the final two months of the year.

"In part this was due to lesser shipments in the fourth quarter, caused by the growing general economic recession," Stinson said.

In larger part, it was caused by the still-virulent inflation of our costs—and by the sharp impact of the coal strike which, in effect, cost us seven weeks' production of our principal energy source.

"We know from experience," Chairman Stinson added, "that we can expect periods of lesser steel demand, such as that we are undergoing now and face in the months ahead."

"As a practical matter, because of the necessity to take several blast furnaces off line for re-lines and rebuilds, our ability to produce primary steel will, in any event, be reduced through much of 1975's first half.

"However, demand for many products remains strong—most notably for National Steel in tin mill products, plate, tubing and merchant pig iron.

"Certain of our sheet customers also continue to enjoy strong business conditions."

"And since we believe that steel will be in short supply for some time into the future, despite transitory softening in various markets, we anticipate a return to good levels of general steel demand."

Sales and operating revenue for 1974 totaled $2,727,774,484, compared with $2,103,279,302 for 1973.

For the fourth quarter of 1974, they were $696,111,814, compared with $533,474,465 for the final 1973 quarter, a 30 per cent increase.

Production of primary steel in 1974 was 10,603,800 tons, down six per cent compared with 11,321,000 tons in 1973.

Shipments totaled 8,790,000 tons in 1974, down four per cent compared with 9,142,400 tons in 1973.

Investment credit in 1974 totaled $4,359,000 compared with $11,100,000 in 1973.

Fourth-quarter 1974 investment credit amounted to $1,700,000, compared with $5,475,000 in 1973's fourth quarter.

The $39,653,154 fourth-quarter net income represented a 32.7 per cent increase from the $29,872,611, or $1.61 per share, net earnings in October-December 1973.

The year's income of $175,763,654 was up 79 per cent from the $98.1 million, or $5.27 a share, in 1973. Sales in 1974 were $2.73 billion, a 30 per cent rise from $2.10 billion in the previous year.

National Steel's profit as a percentage of sales amounted to 5.7 per cent in the past three months, compared with 8.8 per cent in the 1973 third quarter, when it earned $69 million, or $3.90 a share, on sales of $781.7 million.

The profit margin of 6.4 per cent for all of 1974 is the highest for any year since 1966, when National Steel had a 6.7 per cent return on sales. The profit compared to sales was 4.7 per cent in 1973.

An understanding attitude is called essential in health care

"Understanding" is the key word in health care, according to representatives of the School of Nursing of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville who addressed the University Seminar during the weekend in the Lovejoy Library auditorium.

"It is our belief that we can make life more pleasant for each other when we have a better understanding why people with different backgrounds act as they do when they receive health care," said Ina Ingwersen, associate professor of nursing.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Thurs., Jan. 30, 1975 Page 18

Mrs. Ingwersen was joined by Margaret Chang, instructor of nursing, and Judy Wider of Edwardsville, a nursing student and seminar presidential scholar.

They discussed food habits, reaction to pain and the significance of death as they relate to health care.

Mrs. Chang, a native of China, discussed the subject from an Oriental point of view, and Mrs. Ingwersen, a native of the Netherlands, revealed a perspective of European culture. Miss Wider gave insights concerning a black subcultural group in the city of Edwardsville.

Mrs. Ingwersen said many persons come in contact with people of various cultures while visiting relatives and friends in hospitals because very few people have private rooms. "By understanding, we may have opportunities to be of some help," she added.

All three speakers agreed that food habits are embedded in social customs and religious beliefs.

"In fact, food habits are usually so firmly fixed that people who are transported to a new environment may change their language and their dress and their religion, but will cling to dietary customs," Mrs. Chang said.

"Therefore, in relation to health care, we know that when individuals are forced to change their food habits, especially for health reasons, they may manifest strong reactions."

The Chinese instructor cited water as an example. In China, ice water is unusual, while it is expected in American hospitals.

"It would be more sensible to place a thermos bottle of hot water by the bedside of a Chinese patient rather than ice water... if you expect him to drink it," Mrs. Chang said.

Mrs. Ingwersen commented, "Just a little bit of understanding of the strong link between cultural background and food habits is a big help."

She explained that some people feel a religious requirement to wash their hands before a meal.

"There is no problem when this individual is able to go to a water source, but what if he is restricted to a bed?"

"Does he dare to ask someone to bring a basin of water, only to be told: 'You had your bath this morning.' Will he violate his beliefs and eat his meal in discomfort and without enjoyment?"

Relating the topic to blacks, Miss Wider said, "Due to educational, economic and occupational deprivation, the black cultural group is basically more susceptible to disease and more vulnerable to premature deaths than the more affluent cultural groups in our community."

"Once a black person enters the hospital, he experiences a quiet panic over his conflict between wanting help and distrusting it. As a result, he may leave the hospital against medical advice."

"More often, he stays and tends to respond to care with unquestioning submission, asking for no information and no help."

"This patient's failure to complain may well be a result of the continuing conflict between need and distrust."

In relation to pain, Miss Wider said, "When a black person is in pain, he tries not to verbally express his suffering, for this behavior is culturally disapproved of."

On the subject of death, Mrs. Ingwersen repeated a comment by Joseph Rheinhold, a prominent psychologist, about the significance of death:

"Cultures may be characterized by different attitudes regarding death. 'It can be death-dying, death-accepting and death-denying.'"

Mrs. Ingwersen contended, "Our society is afraid of death and has assigned three groups of professionals to the task of dealing with death: physicians, clergy and the funeral directors."

She said she experienced a "cultural shock" when she attended the first funeral in the United States. "In the Netherlands, the attitude is 'death-accepting,' she explained.

Mrs. Ingwersen quoted Elizabeth Kubler-Ross in her book, "On Death and Dying," that a dying person goes through five stages: denial and isolation; anger—"Why me?"; bargaining; depression; and acceptance.

"As human beings, no matter what our cultural heritage is, we have to help our relatives and friends to work out those stages when they die; in the same way, we need this help when our time has come."

"We cannot take away paring and its hardness, but we can make it easier," Mrs. Ingwersen said.

Mrs. Chang concluded the seminar presentation with the comment, "I would like to remind all of us that culture, religions and socio-economic factors have profound effects on human behavior."

"There is no easy way to circumvent all of these."

"And it is not wise to stereotype all the people in the group as being exactly alike."

"Human behavior is always variously motivated, and every human being is endowed from birth with physical, intellectual and emotional characteristics, all of which have the capacity for change."

Mrs. Marits Kesnar, 1635 Lindell Boulevard, Granite City, has established a $500 loan fund for music students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in honor of her late husband, who was a professor of music at SIU-Carbondale for many years.

The Marits Kesnar Loan Fund will provide interest-free loans for music students totaling not more than $500 each academic year.

Loans will be repaid in monthly installments, beginning the tenth month after the recipient is no longer enrolled as a fulltime student at SIUE.

Mrs. Kesnar has taught music in the Granite City public schools for many years and has previously given books and sheet music to the university.

The loan fund was established through the SIU Foundation at Edwardsville.

Volunteers to be honored at scout dinner

The Blood, Sweat and Tears award will be but one of several awards given to volunteer leaders of the Cahokia Round Boy Scout Council at the 25th annual scout leader recognition dinner.

The event will be held Saturday, Feb. 8, at the Trinity Lutheran School, 600 Water St., Edwardsville, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Eight volunteers will be honored with the Certificate of Merit for outstanding contributions to the scout program during the year and six scouts will receive the President's award for notable service of a current nature to the local scout program.

The Silver Beaver award, the highest honor a local council can present a volunteer, will highlight the series of presentations.

The dinner will be open to the public, but limited to the first 375 buying tickets at $4.50 per person. Deadline for the purchasing of tickets is 5 p.m. Friday, Jan. 31. Tickets may be obtained weekdays from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the scout office, 1338a Niedringhaus Ave.

Opposition in four Granite City wards

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

Opposition for aldermanic posts in four of Granite City's seven wards and for the office of city street superintendent were indicated this week in final filings of candidates' petitions with City Clerk Robert Stevens. The filing period for the Granite City April 1 election ended at 5:30 p.m. Monday shortly after petitions were filed by three additional candidates—two for aldermanic posts and one for the street superintendent's office.

Latest to file Monday were Tom Nesbit, 2807 Warren Ave., as a candidate for street superintendent; Melvin "Red" Hill, 2206 Delmar Ave., as a candidate for alderman of the Second Ward, and James "Jim" Stuart, 3001 E. 23rd St., for alderman of the First Ward.

The filing deadline also passed Monday evening in the park district elections scheduled in Venice on April 1 and in Granite City on April 15. Petitions were filed Monday by Mrs. Valeta Bauder, 708 Third St., Venice, as a candidate for one of the two park board posts subject to election in the Venice Park District. Her candidacy brought to four the total number of candidates seeking election to the two Venice Park Board offices.

Five candidates have filed for one park board commissioner's post in the Granite City Park District.

Candidates who have filed in the Granite City municipal election and the two park district elections will have five days in which to withdraw their candidacies if they so desire. Stevens said that since his office is closed Saturday, Feb. 1, withdrawals will be accepted in the city election through Monday, Feb. 3.

Final filings in the Granite City election results in opposition for aldermanic posts in Wards One, Two, Four and Seven, and a three-way race for the street superintendent's post. There is a total of 14 candidates seeking the seven offices as aldermen.

Incumbent Alderman Everett Morden of Ward One is opposed by two other candidates, Charles R. Douglas and James "Jim" Stuart, while Sam Whitmer, incumbent alderman of Ward Two is opposed by Hill. Incumbent Clyde Boyd is unopposed in Ward Three. In Ward Four, incumbent Claude Green did not file for re-election. He told the Press-Record that he served ten years as alderman, and "I think we have accomplished quite a few things in my ward. I would like to thank all the people for the way they have worked with me."

Green was appointed as alderman in 1962 and was elected to his first full term in 1967, winning re-election to another four-year term in 1971. Filing as candidates in Ward Four were Warren Decatur and Glen Sprankle.

Walter Noron of Ward Five who has the longest service of any alderman on the City Council, is unopposed for re-election. Noron is completing his 32nd year as an alderman.

Also unopposed is Gerald Parmelee, incumbent alderman of the Sixth Ward.

A four-way race for the aldermanic post in Ward Seven is expected to be a highlight of the campaign. Emerald Daves, incumbent alderman of Ward Seven, is opposed by three other candidates. They are Donald Partney Jr., Daniel Sparks and Frank Vesel.

Lionel Portell, incumbent street superintendent during the past four years, is opposed by two other candidates, Mac Warfield, son of former Street Superintendent William Warfield, and Tom Nesbit. The street superintendent is elected citywide. The aldermen are elected by voters living within the respective wards.

In the April 1 Venice Park District election, four candidates are seeking two commissioner posts. Terms expire this year are those of incumbents John Mitchell, now board president, and Mrs. Ola Dandridge. Both have filed as candidates for re-election.

Also filing for the Venice posts were John Henry Williams of 619 Washington Ave., Venice, and Mrs. Valeta Bauder, 708 Third St.

Five candidates are in the field for one post in the Granite City Park District which will hold its election on April 15. They seek the one vacancy on the Park Board created by the resignation last year of Paul Thompson who moved out of the city. Since Thompson's term was due to expire this year, the Park Board did not fill the vacancy by appointment.

Candidates for the one commissioner's post include Jack E. Hood, Richard Reinhardt, Nicholas J. Ryan, George H. Sykes and Ronald Dillard.

Filing for the April 15 city and ward elections in this area by Venice, Madison and Ponton Beach, will continue through Feb. 10, followed by a five-day withdrawal period. One additional filing was reported in Madison this week when Anthony W. Romanick, 1823 Edwardsville Road, filed petitions as a candidate for alderman of Madison's Third Ward.

His candidacy brings to five the total number of candidates

Grzywacz 50th Madison Rotary member

A major goal of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club was membership chairman when the 50th anniversary dinner in April was to have at least 30 active members. This goal was realized at the club's Wednesday noon meeting in the Madison Recreation Center with the installation of Ronald L. Grzywacz.

Grzywacz who lives at 1204 Alton Ave., Madison, is a construction worker and operator of C. and G. Car Wash. He was installed as the 50th member by Dr. George T. Wilkins Sr., past president of the club and former district governor of Rotary International.

Grzywacz is a member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and is active in both club scouting and exploring. He and his family are members of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Madison.

Dr. Wilkins paid special tribute to Ray Edwards, who was the club's membership chairman when the 50th

More manpower funds released

U.S. Congressman Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis) announced Tuesday that the Department of Labor is ready to release $78.5 million as the final allotment under the Title V Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. The official announcement is to be made tomorrow by the Department of Labor. Madison County is to receive $1,726,874 of the money which will provide funding for about 180 more employees who will be made available free to governmental agencies in Madison and Bond counties.

Dan Churovich, director of the Office of Manpower Development for the two counties, said tomorrow's announcement will make clear whether the $78,526,474 for the two-county area or just for Madison County.

Churovich said he was slightly disappointed in the figure since the Department of Labor had estimated the final release for the two counties would be $1,869,635, of which the county already has received $574,493. "It is possible the $1.7 million figure is just for Madison County and the Bond County portion will bring the total to the $1.8 million we anticipated," he said.

Price also announced the release of $795,614 to East St. Louis and $1,112,525 for the remainder of St. Clair County.

The state also has granted a not for profit corporation charter to the Association of Former Illinois State Troopers, police department, East St. Louis.

William H. Morris, Elza Brantley and William Dye are charterers. The club is listed as a social organization.

Correspondent is the East Central Illinois Criminal Justice Commission, 204 N. Logan, Danville.

New state education post has a 121-year history

By MARY LOU MANNING

Press-Record
Springfield Bureau
This month, the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction not only received a new boss, but also took on a new name.

On Jan. 13, the OSPI died and the Illinois Office of Education was born.

That's also the day the State Board of Education and the new superintendent of education assumed jurisdiction over the state's 2,300,000 elementary and secondary students. The change completed implementation of a provision of the 1970 Illinois Constitution mandating the creation of an elected superintendent of public instruction. It also called for creation of the 17-member board to assume duties previously delegated to the OSPI.

Replacing the elected superintendent, Dr. Michael J. Bakalis, is Dr. Joseph M. Cronin.

The 39-year-old superintendent is the former secretary of education affairs for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He was appointed by the Illinois board at a salary of $48,000 annually.

Joining Dr. Cronin as newly appointed education officials are three members of the State Board. Gov. Dan Walker named Carlos Alberto Plazas and Carolyn W. Bergan, both of Chicago, and Carl Busby, Ridge Farm, to fill three of the four board vacancies. Mrs. Bergan and Busby are Republicans while Plazas is an independent.

However, unlike Cronin, the appointees face Senate confirmation. Three of their predecessors were rejected by the Senate last year.

The OSPI was created in 1854, about 30 years after the instigation of free public schools in Illinois and 70 years after the first known Illinois school began in Monroe County.

Prior to 1854, the secretary of state was responsible for the school act and free education. Ninian Wirt Edwards, who was appointed by the governor to the office in 1854, was the first superintendent.

The first elected official was William Powell, who took over in 1857.

Seventeen men have held the post, with appointments made only to fill vacancies.

Prior to 1870, superintendents were elected to two-year terms. After that date, the terms were extended to four years.

Francis G. Blair, R-Coles County, served seven terms for a total of 24 years of service.

GC Kiwanis to help children

A general discussion was held by the 16 members attending the Evening Kiwanis club meeting Monday at Charlie's Restaurant on ways the group may assist children with learning disabilities and how they could enrich the lives of senior citizens.

Vasil Eftimoff, administrative assistant to the superintendent of schools in Granite City in charge of pupil personnel, will be invited to the next meeting to offer specific suggestions on club projects for helping children.

Kiwanis President Joseph Palovich announced that the Kiwanis District 14 mid-winter conference is scheduled Monday, Feb. 24, at the Round Table Restaurant near Collinsville, beginning at 5:30 p.m.

President Palovich also announced that on Saturday, Feb. 15, club members will hold their annual Valentine party at the home of Kiwanian Samuel Stodkey.

CARL BACZENAS, supervisor of communication, Granite City Steel Division, National Steel Corp., has become the first in the greater St. Louis area to become an accredited business communicator. Accreditation was by the International Association of Business Communicators (IABC). Baczenas underwent a testing program conducted by IABC at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Accreditation results from passing the examination and recognizes accomplishments in the field of communication.

The comparatively new program certifies professional competence in communications in much the same way that a professional engineer's license certifies engineering competence. More than 80 business communicators in the St. Louis area are members of the Industrial Press Association, the local chapter of IABC. A past president of IPA, Baczenas has been with Granite City Steel nearly 25 years and is a graduate of Washington University, St. Louis.

Cutting the fat from your food bill with milk

Milk is a big part of almost everybody's food budget. Not only do children need a lot of it for growth, grown-ups need it too for body maintenance. It's our main source of calcium and rich in protein and riboflavin.

But the more you know about butterfat, the more "fat" you might be able to trim from your food bill each week. Because we offer you a wide selection of butterfat contents in the milk we sell - all at different prices.

The average milk-drinking family can actually save up to a dollar or two a week by determining which butterfat content is right for their needs.

Here are some guidelines for milk that may help you weigh one value against the other.

- 1. Whole milk. It has approximately 3.25% butterfat present, evenly dispersed through the milk by the process of homogenization. And all the whole milk we sell is fortified with Vitamin D. You get about 160 calories per 8-ounce glass.
- 2. Skim milk. It has all the nutrients of whole milk except for fat, which is cut to a maximum of 0.5%. An 8-ounce glass contains 90 calories.
- 3. 2% milk. When fresh whole milk and skimmed milk are mixed together you get 2% butterfat content. Like whole milk, it is also fortified with Vitamin D.
- 4. Instant Nonfat Dry Milk. Using nonfat dry milk offers the greatest possibility for saving money. All the protein, minerals, and most of the vitamins of the fluid milk are retained, and it is fortified with vitamins A & D. It has the advantages of needing no refrigeration in dry form, of easy storage and of mixing and measuring easily. When reconstituted, it has 0.1% butterfat and contains 90 calories per 8-ounce glass.

Car overturns railroad lights

An auto struck and knocked over two flashing railroad signal lights at 20th and Omaha streets at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday and then left the scene.

The lights are owned by Granite City Steel. The accident apparently broke the radiator of the auto and police reported following a trail of leaking water west on 20th Street and south on Washington Avenue to a lot in the 2000 block of Washington Avenue where the auto was parked.

A witness said two men left the car and walked in different directions.

At 9:40 a.m. Tuesday, police arrested Larry Edsall, 22, of 2015 Washington Ave., at 20th Street and Madison Avenue, charged him with failure to give information after an accident.

By LESTER BELL

Press-Record
Washington Bureau
Senior Americans are becoming a potent political power impelled by the short-changing of their "golden years," concludes U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy in his book, "Growing Old in the Country of the Young."

Percy's book (McGraw-Hill, $7.95)—put together with the help of co-author Charles Mangel and staff aides—is a poignant text on the shabby treatment of the elderly, the Illinois senator's specific Congressional proposals to help them, plus an "action resource guide" to practical information. It has been well received. He calls his book an "impressionistic survey" designed to stimulate national perception of and commitment to the problems of an aging population. It is an outgrowth of his teenage experience on relief during the Great Depression, his observations as a businessman, and his fieldwork and hearings as a member of the Senate Special Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs. "If you don't die young," one Senate witness said, "you are liable to get old. If you get old, you had better think about what's going to happen to you."

What's happening, as case histories in Percy's book depict, amounts to a rip-off by a youth-oriented society, laws that are more rhetoric than substance, bureaucratic stupidity, callous landlords, and stores ready with a fast markup on food stamp day. These are the glaring examples. There are more subtle lapses of compassion. The dreams and, some say, the right of the elderly to live out their lives in dignity, peace and comfort can no longer be shut out of sight as many of them are. The senior Americans are growing in number and awareness.

There are 20 million Americans 65 or older and another 42 million more between the ages of 45 and 65. "These two groups now make up more than one-quarter of our total population," says Percy. He notes further along that although the older group comprised but 10 per cent of the population, it accounted for 17 per cent of the vote in the last national election.

The elderly, it is clear, are using their voting power out of proportion to their numbers. Already some of their accomplishments are impressive," Percy says.

If anyone doubts the heightened awareness of the senior citizens, listen to Margaret Kuhn, founder of the Gray Panthers:

"Our decade is witnessing the rise of a very different generation of elders. We live longer. We're more vigorous physically. We're better educated and more articulate. "We are becoming aware how our society puts us down. I would have thought the revolution of the elders, contrary to other revolutions, would be a unifying force in our society."

"Age is the great universalizer. We're all growing old. Every one of us."

"The Gray Panthers and other like-minded groups are muscling in on society. We'll do it with militancy, demonstrations, anything to get a place at the table."

Percy says "senior power is just beginning to coalesce into an important new force in America."

He could be reminding himself and warning bureaucrats and other politicians when he concludes: "They are learning quickly to touch the pressure points of our society."

Inquiry on state payroll

Illinois Auditor General Robert C. Cronson, who is appointed by the legislature, has ordered an inquiry into allegations that as many as 50 employees of the state Department of Transportation are actually aides to the governor and have little to do with transportation affairs. Maurice W. Scott, executive vice-president of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, a private citizens' group, is among those who has contended that up to 50 persons are "ghosts" on the DOT payroll. On the list are 18 of the 47 persons in the DOT Bureau of Maintenance, including a state movie promoter, a former information service official who is conducting public relations activities, aides in the governor's Chicago and Washington D.C. offices, and others, it is alleged.

A Springfield attorney has threatened to file suit, on behalf of taxpayers, to halt use of funds from budgets for purposes other than those stipulated in appropriation measures.

A Walker spokesman has said that if some persons displaced by abolishment of some offices are transferred to other departments, the problems will be corrected.

Geographic factor in House balloting

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

Did the Republicans lose?
This question will be debated throughout the term of the 70th Illinois General Assembly and probably far beyond that.

But the immediate reaction beneath the Statehouse dome was that the seven Chicago area GOP House members who bolted party discipline to vote for Rep. William Redmond, Bensenville Democrat, for House speaker probably did the GOP a favor.

The reasoning is that the public, after 93 ballots, was tired of the whole affair and was relieved to see the issue resolved, no matter how.

The seven Chicago and Chicago area Republicans who made Redmond's election possible are close enough to Redmond in geographical proximity to make their action understandable.

None of the seven are prominent enough from a leadership standpoint to make their switch a party matter. It was basically a personal thing.

There is no question that the overwhelming majority of Republican House members supported the position of their floor leader, James Washburn of Morris, who pleaded with the GOP members to stay out of the struggle and let the majority Democrats elect the speaker in the traditional manner.

From a strictly political standpoint, there was much to be said for letting the Democrats stew in their own juice and thereby remain the main target of public displeasure over House failure to organize and permit the legislature to go about its business.

But this is a different time; everything is changing in politics and government, in the Congress at Washington and in state capitals across the land. People are tired of politics as usual.

With the nation undergoing a domestic crisis unmatched since the years before World War II, people are demanding that government be more responsive to the public needs.

The speaker's fight was basically a political affair and confined to the Capitol. The Illinois taxpayer and voter in general didn't care to go to work.

It is going to be a rough session. Probably little of substance is going to be accomplished. Democratic Gov. Dan Walker will be able to point to the Republican participation in the selection of the speaker and thereby shunt some of the blame for failure onto the GOP.

But Walker himself is identified as one of the losers in the speaker fight. His own man, Rep. Gerald Bradley of Bloomington, was able to attract less than 20 of the 101 Democratic votes in the House despite all the pressure, patronage and otherwise, wielded in his behalf by the Walker forces.

In the great power struggle now deeply under way in the Illinois Democratic party, the speaker's fight was a stand-off between Walker and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. Neither wanted Redmond in the beginning and each was uncomfortable in the compromise that formed around him.

In the end, both had to be rescued by seven defecting Republicans.

Despite some public grumbling, there is a quiet feeling of satisfaction among Republicans that their party did resolve the issue.

The Republicans probably did not lose anything public opinion-wise by stepping into what should have been a strictly Democratic affair. Had they gone for Clyde Chaote, it might have been a different matter.

The board's three-part commitment to expand the bilingual education program is intended to meet the needs of 100,000 children in the state who speak and understand little or no English.

The board voted to seek increased funding for the bilingual program in the state, increased the bilingual staff in the Illinois Office of Education to administer the program, and increased the flexibility of teacher certification to provide the bilingual teachers who will be needed.

This year, 24,000 students speaking ten different languages are being served in bilingual education programs. The program will cost $8 million this year.

Members of the new State Board of Education drew lots for six, four and two-year terms.

Members who will serve six-year terms are: Mrs. Carol N. Johnston of Des Plaines, Dr. Justin Simon Walhout of Rockford, Robert A. Jamieson of Peoria, Charles M. Long of Wagoner and Donald F. Murhead of Decatur.

Bilingual-bicultural education emphasis

The State Board of Education has embarked on an affirmative action program and expansion of the state's bilingual-bicultural education program.

Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin will appoint an affirmative action officer to develop a specific plan for affirmative action in hiring and promotions, for approval by the State Board of Education.

A report developed by an affirmative action committee during the past year, showing that women and minority group persons are under-utilized in high-level positions in the state education office, was accepted as a preliminary step toward providing equal employment opportunities in the office.

Other steps will be taken, including holding workshops for hiring officers and administrators, and establishing an advertising program and using other methods to establish a pool of qualified candidates. A report will be made to the board on the composition of the staff at the end of each quarter.

Building new cabin at first Lincoln homestead in Illinois

By JOAN MURARO
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

After more than a century, there's going to be a log cabin once more on the tract where the family of Abraham Lincoln first built when they moved to Illinois.

While the Lincoln family probably would be pleased, they certainly would be amazed—it is going to cost almost as much as Abraham Lincoln earned in one year as President to build one, rudimentary log cabin on the site, just outside Decatur.

Abe was still a boy when the family members moved to Illinois and built that first cabin, using their own muscles and know-how, and raw materials nearby.

The following winter was severe, and the Lincoln family, snowed into that little cabin, decided if that was Illinois, somebody else could have it.

They moved back to Indiana, and that first cabin, unoccupied by anyone else, collapsed and rotted away. Although the Lincolns later moved back to Illinois, they never returned to that tract.

Over the years since the State Conservation Department designated the site as the Lincoln Trail Homestead State Park, visitors to the site expressed surprise and disappointment when they saw an empty tract of land overlooking the nearby river.

Three or four years ago, Decatur Kiwanis members decided to do something the state couldn't find the money to do—they'd provide a reconstruction of the original cabin.

They obtained official permission and pledged $15,000—a figure which inflation has boosted to $19,600 now.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the cabin are set for 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 8.

While only one cabin in one very small park is involved, the State Conservation Department is touting the whole project as a sterling example of what any community can do (and in fact may have to do) to get desired benefits when there just isn't any money for them.

Mrs. Phyllis Eubanks, volunteer coordinator in the department, said the Decatur club raised the money by selling peanuts, sponsoring pancake and sausage breakfasts, and selling Christmas fruit baskets.

The Kiwanians not only raised the money for the cabin-raising, she said, they raised that much again in order to continue their other on-going projects at the same time.

With the cooperation of James Hickey, curator of the Lincoln collection in the state historical library, a Kiwanis club member and architect, T. Graham Bradley of Decatur, has provided plans.

The Lincolns used white oak growing nearby. The new cabin will have to be built of red oak, since white oak is scarce and expensive now. Even the red oak will have to come from Arkansas.

Whether the logs are exactly the same or the design identical with the original isn't the point, Mrs. Eubanks says. What is important is that a group of concerned citizens got together and decided to do something, and then went out and did it.

Every section of the state has state parks, conservation areas and memorials where area residents would like to see improvements, additions or increased services, she said.

The conservation department, with a set budget, must choose and select which to try in any given year, while the others have to wait.

That is, they have to wait, unless a public-spirited group gets into the action, and decides that "to get a thing done, do it yourself" is as apt now as when the Lincolns built that long-vanished cabin.

The construction probably will be completed by the end of the year. Today, it will cost $19,600.

Three decades after he helped build that little cabin, Lincoln was living in more pretentious housing in Washington D. C., where his annual salary as president of the United States was $25,000.

The new cabin will be officially dedicated on July 5.

A meeting on water supply and septic tank problems encountered by the homeowner or farmer will be held Thursday, Feb. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

The program will provide educational information on two different areas of vital interest to the homeowner. One is what to do about some of the problems the homeowner has in maintaining a safe water supply and the second concerns problems with septic tanks.

The water portion of the program will cover such topics as "How do I know if my water supply is good or bad?" "How do I go about having my water tested?" "Can I use pond water as a water supply for the house?" "How do I treat my cistern or well water if the test indicates a high bacteria or nitrate level?" and "When I build in the rural area should I drill a well, dig a cistern or use pond water?"
The septic tank portion of the program will cover such topics as "What size septic tank should

I use?" "How often should septic tanks be cleaned out?" "What do I do if my septic tank quits working?" "What type of soils will septic tanks work in?" and "Will a sand filter replace the use of the septic tank in the future?"

Dale V. Anderson, agriculture engineer from the University of Illinois, will be the speaker on the program. Additional information on the program may be obtained from the Cooperative Extension Service office at 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

Because of the weather in many areas of Illinois, farmers have been unable to harvest some fields of corn until very late in the year. This corn that is left standing in the field has an opportunity to develop mold problems.

If certain types of molds develop on the corn, hogs will refuse to eat it. There has been some problems with moldy corn in southern Illinois this year. Known moldy corn definitely shouldn't be fed to breeding animals. One way of feeding the corn to non-breeding animals is to scatter the affected corn on a concrete floor and let hogs sort out the good kernels. They will do a pretty good job selecting the good kernels from the damaged ones. If affected corn is being fed to finishing hogs, pull replacement gilts out of the finishing pen by the time they weigh 150 pounds or earlier.

We are interested in knowing if anyone in Madison County has run into the situation of hogs refusing to eat corn because of mold this winter. If you have encountered the problem in the past few weeks, let me know at the Extension office.

The 1975 Agronomy Handbook is now available through the county Extension offices in Illinois. Cost of the 1975 handbook is $1.

The handbook covers the latest information on corn production, soybean production, wheat production, oat production, barley and triticale. It also includes sections on hay and pasture production, soil fertility, soil management and tillage systems, irrigation and weed control in field crops.

The smart horse owner is one that will protect his horse's health by following good feeding and management practices and by taking every precaution to prevent disease and injury.

The most important part of the horse is his feet. A common expression among horsemen is "No feet and legs, no horse." A horse's feet should receive regular care so that he can perform at his best.

To help the horse owner provide proper care of his horse's feet, a circular is available through the University of Illinois entitled "Foot and Health Care of Horses." This publication can be obtained free of charge through the Cooperative Extension office, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

Everything you always wanted in a beer. And less.

Less?
Less filling. Because Lite has less carbohydrates than our regular beer. And one-third less calories than our regular beer.

It's really less filling!
Really. If it wasn't so good, we couldn't say so. And the people who've tried new Lite will tell you that Lite doesn't fill you up the way beer usually does. It feels like there's always room for one more.

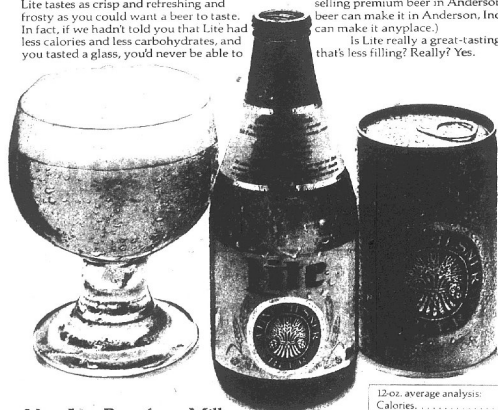

Taste?
Lite tastes as crisp and refreshing and frosty as you could want a beer to taste. In fact, if we hadn't told you that Lite had less calories and less carbohydrates, and you tasted a glass, you'd never be able to tell it was different. Until you drank a few. Then the less-filled-up feeling would tell you there was a difference.

How can I be sure?

Anderson.
Anderson?
Anderson, Indiana. It's one of the places we first tried new Lite beer. It's a factory town of 85,000 where the people work hard and they take their beer seriously. And Lite is already the second largest selling premium beer in Anderson, Indiana, (if a beer can make it in Anderson, Indiana, it can make it anywhere.)

Is Lite really a great-tasting beer that's less filling? Really? Yes.

Record sales volume

Faced by a record $90 million Christmas buying season, Master Charge credit card sales in the trade area which includes metropolitan St. Louis, increased 34 per cent during 1974.

Both marks were all-time highs, according to Credit Systems, Inc., the St. Louis-based operating center for Master Charge. CSI operations include the entire state of Missouri and extend into Kansas, Illinois, Iowa and Western Kentucky.

Master Charge transactions during the year accounted for $458 million in volume, compared with $341 million in 1973. At year-end, Master Charge activity in the area had reached a volume level in excess of a half billion dollars annually.

The strong Christmas activity topped the 1973 holiday season by 40 per cent. Even considering inflationary pressure on prices, the number of individual Master Charge transactions — for retail purchases and bank cash advances — was up over 20 per cent for the year.

"Consumers in this area apparently are using their bank cards as a tool to combat inflation," comments Richard P. Tennant, president of CSI. "Recent price increases have attracted the consumer to the convenience features of the card."

"Cardholders now appear to be making purchases at sales or when products are discounted." Over 190,000 new cardholders and 62 member banks joined the CSI Master Charge program during the year. At year-end, bank membership totaled 674, with more than 1,100,000 cardholders.

There are over 40,000 retail merchant outlets in the five-state CSI system.

World leaders proclaim 'Women's Year'

This year marks the beginning of many celebrations in honor of the American Bicentennial observance and for the first time in the history of the United States also records an "International Women's Year" as decreed by the U. S. President and the United Nations.

1975 has been proclaimed by the President of the United States and the United Nations as "International Women's Year" to promote equality between men and women; to integrate women into the total social and economic development effort of nations; and to recognize the increasing contribution by women to strengthening world peace.

To celebrate the year-long observance, hundreds of conferences, festivals, concerts and exhibits are planned throughout the world. Beryl Nashar, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, expressed the hope that future years will show that women of all nations are citizens of the world with equal opportunity and responsibility in the economic, social and cultural development of their countries.

Spotlighting the woman's role, not only in the field of business but in the business of helping other women, will be the key to programs planned this year by the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, according to its president, Miss Annellen Smith.

"We plan to observe 'International Women's Year' during 1975 in a variety of ways designed to focus attention on the role of women," the local BPW officer said. Information concerning special events now being arranged locally, or for details of the BPW program in general, those interested are invited to call 451-9556, Miss Smith said.

A large percentage of Illinois Power's owners live here in Illinois. Many are both owners and customers of this company. You may be one of them.

Plateau baskets arranged with winter greenery adorned the altar for the 7 o'clock service performed by the Rev. Henry Crippen. "Theme from Love Story" was played preceding the ceremony by the church organist.

The fitted bodice was softly shirred at the waist and the sheer sleeves were gathered at the elbows and tightly cuffed at the wrists. The slightly gathered skirt terminated at the hem in scalloped.

She wore a double tiered veil of bridal illusion, edged in matching lace and draped from a high crown headpiece etched of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white and pale pink miniature carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Martha Wallace, a sister of the bride, was honor attendant. Her pale pink and white gown had long sleeves and she held an arrangement of pink and white carnations interspersed with daisies.

MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN UNDERWOOD. They were united in marriage in ceremonies taking place at the West 22nd Street Baptist Church. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey C. Blackwell, 82 Briarview Drive, the bride is the former Miss Terry L. Blackwell.

Terry Blackwell weds Stephen W. Underwood

Miss Terry L. Blackwell and Stephen W. Underwood exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock on the evening of Jan. 4. The service was performed by the Rev. Ralph Craycraft at the West 22nd Street Baptist Church.

Nuptial selections included "The Wedding Song," "Theme from Love Story" and "More."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey C. Blackwell, 82 Briarview Drive. Foster parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peach, reside at 135 Kinder Lane. His stepfather and mother are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Radcliff, 2207 Edna St.

For her wedding, the former Miss Blackwell chose a full-length gown of white organza over taffeta designed with narrow ruffled lace and blue ribbon edging the oval neckline.

The trimming was repeated around the Empire waist and accented the wide, accordeon-pleated cuffs of the long sheer sleeves.

Her A-line style skirt extended into a chapel length train. She wore a bouffant shoulder length veil secured to a white satin bow and she carried a cascade of blue and white carnations, festooned with long blue satin streamers.

Maid of honor Miss Denise McChullen and the bridesmaids, Miss Lynnette Pence, Miss Cathy Jones, a cousin of the groom, and Miss Sharon Beth Aldridge, the bride's aunt, wore rainbow colored dresses.

Their gowns were made with white sheer bodices and full, gathered skirts in pastel shades of blue, mint green, orchid and pink. Tiny multi-colored flowers created a pinfire effect on the bodices and detailed the high necklines.

Each attendant held a basket of carnations in a color to match her gown.

The flower girl, Karen Blackwell, a cousin of the bride, wore a cream colored frock enhanced with blue ribbon and lace trim. She carried a basket of mid-winter blossoms.

Richard Waggoner, an uncle of the groom, served as best man. Greg Blackwell, a brother of the bride, Jerry Owens, Jeff Blackwell, the bride's cousin, Scott Pinkis and Ricky Dew completed the corps of groomsmen.

A reception was held in the church hall immediately following the ceremony.

Mrs. Blackwell, mother of the bride, chose a burgandy velvet skirt and coat ensemble, complemented with a sheer pink blouse and silver accessories.

Mrs. Peach was attired in a long blue polyester gown and matching lace jacket with silver accessories. Mrs. Radcliff selected a street length dress in pink. Each wore a carnation corsage in harmonizing colors.

The bride is a graduate of Granite City High School and Granite City School of Beauty Culture. She is now employed at Busy Bee's Beauty Shop.

Her husband attended local schools and works at Lipsett Steel Co.

They are residing in Granite City.

Bay View to mark 65th year

Miss Lily Dod, 3217 Aubrey Ave., was hostess to the Bay View Reading Club last week at a meeting in her home.

The pledge of allegiance and club collect was led by Mrs. James Stuart and Miss Frances Lynch.

A lengthy discussion was held on the approaching guest day May 8 which will mark the 65th anniversary of the club.

Program Chairman Mrs. Helen Krumsiek introduced Mrs. E. M. Aronovitz who gave a review of the book, "Elizabeth Appleton," by John O'Hara.

A dessert luncheon was served by the hostess to Mesdames Milton Allen, Arthur Buehler, R. E. Chapman, Ralph Frohardt, Herman Huxel, Harold Jansen, Russell Johnson, Walter Klein, Lawrence McCauley, E. A. Mueller, Dale Rea, H. P. Reuss, Arthur Roman.

Mrs. Frohardt will host the Feb. 13 meeting.

Baptist women plan luncheon

The Women's Missionary Union met at Calvary Baptist Church last week to finalize plans for a Feb. 11 luncheon in observance of "WMU Focus Week."

A Valentine theme will be used in the luncheon decor, based on the motto "Love Thy Neighbor." The honorees will be WMU members and senior women of the church.

At the planning meeting prayer was offered by Mrs. Thelma Phelps and Mrs. Lou Slayter led the hymn singing.

Mrs. Lois Bradford, president, was in charge, and announced the birthdays of missionaries. Mrs. Slayter offered a special prayer in their honor.

The remainder of the day was spent rolling bandages and preparing treats for residents at an area nursing home.

Counselor for Army in Korea

Mrs. and Mrs. Levey (Margaret) Auchenbach, former local residents, arrived this week in Seoul, Korea, where the former will serve as a guidance counselor at the U. S. Army garrison's educational center.

Auchenbach is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Auchenbach, 2410 Sheridan Ave.

A former substitute teacher at Granite City High School, he also taught at Kirkwood (Mo.) Junior High School. Before starting his teaching career he served with the Peace Corps in Malaysia.

Auchenbach received a bachelor's degree from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and a master's degree in American History from the same university.

The Granite Cityan and his wife are expected to remain in Seoul about two years.

Curtis Bosworths host dinner party

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Bosworth, 1665 Third Madison, entertained relatives and friends at a buffet dinner honoring an uncle and aunt, from California, who were visiting in the area.

Guests of honor were Randy Bess of Granite Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Marianne Mannisto of Glendale, Calif. They returned to their homes last week.

Others present for the dinner party included Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Owea, Mrs. Jeanne Toenyes, Mr. and Mrs. Courtenay Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. John Maher, Ed Foley Sr., Mr. and Mrs. David Bess, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Saucier, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Foley Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Busher, Mr. and Mrs. Logan Donaldson, Mrs. Roy Hill Sr., DeAnn Toenyes, Dennis Maher, Chris and John Bess, Joe Saucier, Lucia and Vince Foley, Eric and Maggie Busher, and Tammy Donaldson.

Shower honors Ruth Bradley

Miss Ruth Bradley was complimented at a bridal shower given by her sister, Mrs. Violet Hughes, 2905 Warren Ave. Assisting at the party were Mary and Joyce Hughes.

The hostess used white streamers, bows and wedding bells in the table decorations. She directed several games and awarded prizes to the winners.

After the guest of honor opened her gifts refreshments were served to Mrs. Gladys Van Beuer, mother of the prospective groom, and Mesdames Eileen Bradley, Kathryn Ritchie, Mildred Gage, Cecelia Holman, Thelma Hendricks, Donna Petras, Ada Smith, Doris Hendricks, Nora Stallings.

Mesdames Martha Dorch, Kay and Diane Harris, Lola Miller, Fran and Tracy Taylor, Elizabeth and Amy Kissel, Mary Lignoul, Sue Nesbitt, Jackie Johnson and son, Billy, and John Hughes.

Confirmation ceremonies for Grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 will be held in May, with Sister Helen of the Religious Education office instructing those to be confirmed on April 15, the principal said.

Mass to start school observance

A special mass for all students and their parents at St. Joseph Parochial School will be held at 9:30 a.m. Sunday to celebrate the start of "Catholic School Week," according to Tony Boyer, president of St. Joseph Parents and Friends Club.

Boyer announced the mass at a club meeting. He said a bake sale also is planned Sunday, following each service, sponsored by fifth and sixth grade pupils.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Jean Stanfill and a secretary's report read by Mrs. Clare Mungovan. A potluck dinner held last month for the school faculty and congregation was reviewed.

School sweatshirts will be available for sale, starting in February, Boyer said. Parents volunteered to purchase paint and renovate a front hallway at the school.

Sister Mary Samuella, principal, said school will be dismissed Feb. 12 in observance of Lincoln's Birthday.

Confirmation ceremonies for Grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 will be held in May, with Sister Helen of the Religious Education office instructing those to be confirmed on April 15, the principal said.

Changing course being charted by unpredictable governor

President Dan Walker? It seems improbable, but so did the likelihood of a title like Governor Dan Walker in 1972, when he ran as an underdog against Lt. Gov. Paul Simon in the spring primary and then against Gov. Richard Ogilvie in the fall general election.

Whether or not everyone likes his methods, there is no question but that most Illinoisans, and many Americans, are aware of Dan Walker's existence. And this is said to be half the battle in itself in mapping political campaign warfare.

A constant center of controversy, the chief executive of Illinois is hard to catalogue. Contradictions continue to develop atop past contradictions. If he has a middle name, it's "Unpredictability." Here are some examples:

A sharp decrease in the state political patronage available to some party leaders initially was indicated. Later, there were promises of bigger than normal patronage.

An exposition hall-cultural center for this region was said to be in jeopardy. Now, the public is told it not only will be built, but faster than had been expected.

Budget limitations were said to preclude much progress on a number of Illinois construction and conservation projects. Last week, a vast list of major facilities was chosen to be expedited.

Cordially permeated a Madison County meeting in which funds were raised for the governor's favorite cause, the Illinois Democratic Fund.

A few weeks later, there were angry confrontations.

Icy relations with Chicago Mayor Daley have been followed by warm cooperations, followed by an apparently irreversible split and now by a new era of mutual backscratching.

Pledges to weed out past state payroll practices have now been superseded by inclusion of many "ghost" payers.

And there has been a veto of tax relief legislation for senior citizens and for handicapped persons, as "too costly," simultaneously with toleration of sharp raises and unprecedented salary levels for many dozens of imported and home-grown state administrators and aides.

Such contrasts—including assailing past state managerial ranks as wasteful and then saddling taxpayers with huge new administrative expenses—create questions over whether there is a clear and defensible pattern of priorities and procedures.

Adding to voter uncertainty are the broad use of amendatory veto powers to rewrite or drastically alter much of the legislative product, and sudden, massive new programs and directions like those unveiled last week. Surprise seems to be the "order of the day" every day.

It has not been a wholly uninteresting ride, but the Illinois governmental roller-coaster certainly includes a lot of abrupt drops and sharp turns.

Profit understanding affected by what is being compared

Corporate profits can be interpreted in a variety of ways, and some pundits and government leaders have been utilizing incomplete yardsticks to arrive at figures which have prompted them to label a few earnings increases as "obscene."

Such language has never been applied to National Steel Corporation, owner of Granite City Steel, but the Pittsburgh-based manufacturer's latest annual report this week affords an opportunity to illustrate the point.

Net earnings of National Steel for 1974 were $175 million, which is a rise of 79 per cent from the $98 million earned in 1973. This sounds like a dramatic improvement and perhaps it is. But viewed in another way, it is not nearly as startling.

The same profit as a percentage of sales was 6.4 per cent in 1974, up from the 4.7 per cent of 1973 but less than the 6.7 per cent attained in 1966.

National Steel has been one of the most efficient of all steel firms in America. Nevertheless, its earnings as a return on sales have been below the 6.7 per cent level in each of the past eight years, hardly an outrageous amount.

Oil companies were the most frequent target of verbal abuse last year. If one of them boosted its yearly net from two per cent to six per cent, it was described as an earnings increase of 200 per cent, technically true but misleading if that is the only figure given.

"Profits really isn't a dirty word, and maybe its image will improve if there is more emphasis on presenting corporate statistics in fuller perspective."

But if the state's financial condition is so desperate, how is it possible to justify pay increases, averaging more than $5,000 for department heads and $2,500 for legislators?

The state has already saved more than $100 million in funds that would have been spent on senior programs. Now it seems determined to save more, at the expense of those who can least afford it.

Local experts have already stated that the state could safely absorb the costs of the senior tax relief program. Although $34 million was appropriated, only about $17 million would have been spent at the expected participation rate.

On behalf of the thousands of seniors who have worked with the state for decades, hundreds of thousands who stand in need of immediate assistance, we cannot accept Governor Walker's action as one in good faith.

It is fine to talk about economy and limiting spending.

The financial situation of the 450,000 seniors who would have benefited from House Bill 2715 is no better today—in fact, it is worse—than it was in 1973.

Now, nearly eight weeks later, after five other major pieces of legislation have been acted on, and after it is too late for a veto override, the bill is still in committee. The thousands of Illinois seniors for the additional tax benefits so urgently needed in 1975.

The program of annual cash rebates on sales taxes for food, fuel, clothing and medicine would have been effective Jan. 1 of this year. By this time, many would already have applied and some would have received the extra dollars.

The elderly and handicapped must now wait until at least the beginning of 1976 before any new relief is in sight.

It is fine to talk about economy and limiting spending.

Quality of life—still declining?

By BILL WINTER

Stringent environmental controls are being applied in many fields. Whether they are producing the anticipated results continues to be a point of controversy.

Quad-Cityans are familiar with the long history of efforts to upgrade local air quality and to install sophisticated anti-pollution controls at industrial emission sites.

U. S. Steel Corp. was in the news a month ago for permanently closing its ten Gary, Ind., open hearth furnaces, which had been the subject of lengthy air pollution litigation.

This week, it was disclosed at Pittsburgh that a federal grand jury is investigating U. S. Steel Corp. and some of its officials for possible criminal violations of the 1970 Clean Air Act in connection with emissions at the Clairton, Pa., coke works.

The Justice Department, acting on behalf of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, has subpoenaed 16 U. S. Steel employees to appear before the grand jury Feb. 4.

Allegations are that U. S. Steel deliberately disregarded federal notices intended to end air pollution at Clairton. The coke batteries there constitute the largest coking operation of the nation's largest steelmaker.

All of which might lead to the possibility that such crackdowns and layoffs are the path to air purity—and that America is becoming progressively export-dependent thanks to forced plant shutdowns.

But just the opposite is the case, according to a February 1975 issue of National Wildlife magazine. The supposedly degraded millennium is not being reached.

Despite mammoth and growing expenditures to safeguard air and natural resources and to upgrade the environment, the overall "quality of life"—as defined by the magazine—continued to move downward in 1974.

The magazine of the National Wildlife Federation each year develops an Environmental Quality Index (EQI).

The sixth annual EQI shows a decline in five of the seven

"vital resource areas" that are surveyed. "I fall back in the areas of wildlife, living space, soil, mineral and water resources."

Wildlife—Animal habitat continued to shrink in 1974 and many federal programs designed to protect or save wildlife spluttered.

Full implementation of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 faltered. The Office of Management and Budget cut nearly $10 million requested to acquire critical habitat.

Many endangered species, including the American crocodile, continued to head toward extinction.

Living Space—Events last year underscored the increasingly urgent question confronting the entire world: How many people at what standard of living can the earth's resources support?

Despite the lowest birthrate in 15 years, the country's population continued to expand, exerting intense pressure for more living space, more energy and more resources. A national land use bill was once again defeated in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Soil—In 1974, farmers plowed up more than nine million acres of reserve land to help meet the world-wide food crisis.

Most farmland is cared for improperly—less than half of the topsoil erode annually—and at least 23 million acres of last year's cropland should but was not returned to grass or woodland.

Timber—A temporary cutback in the demand for wood, more existing forest land reforestation, relieved pressure on U. S. woodlands last year.

With sharply increasing demands in the future, though, the outlook is just fair.

Minerals—The days of cheap fuel and extravagant consumption are over.

The U. S. is now dependent on foreign imports for bauxite and minerals were often singled out as being to blame for the energy crisis.

The EQI says that, with deep uncertainty over energy almost certain to prevail throughout 1975, the outlook for further pure air progress remains dim.

The U. S. is now dependent on foreign imports for bauxite and manganese as well as oil and many other minerals.

The energy squeeze urgently calls for: (1) conservation, and (2) research and development of alternative sources, including solar and geothermal power, the EQI findings show.

Water—Serious problems continued to hold back water pollution clean-up last year.

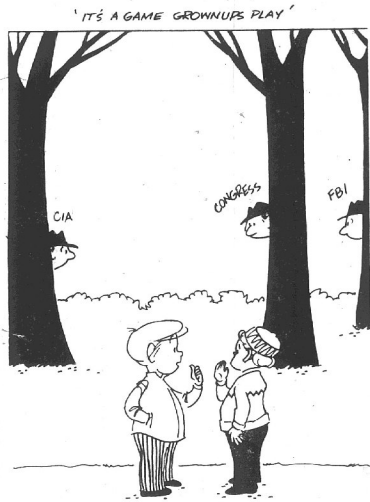

They ranged from Presidential impoundment of $18 billion in local-level water treatment funds to a court ruling that allows a Minnesota firm to dump 60,000 tons of wastes into Lake Superior each day.

With continued fund short-tages, little more than a third of the country's water supply will meet 1977 clean-up requirements.

The EQI, first published in 1969, has been compiled by some government officials and environmental leaders as a "unique, authoritative journalistic evaluation of life quality."

What is the general trend since the annual index began? National Wildlife summarizes its pessimism by relating that "since the first survey, all seven indices have declined, particularly those for wildlife, living space, soil and minerals."

Regional airport dilemma Build new facilities at Lambert or . . . . .

By GAYLE BISHOP

Community Relations Manager
Lambert-St. Louis Airport
Lambert-St. Louis International Airport has the capability of being expanded to serve as the primary air carrier airport for the St. Louis area.

Through 1965, according to the Ralph M. Parsons Co.

The Los Angeles consulting firm conducted the master plan study to determine the future of Lambert.

The six-month study was jointly sponsored by the St. Louis Airport Authority, Missouri-St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority and Federal Aviation Administration.

The conclusion based on the forecast of aviation demand performed in this study, and the results of the analyses of the capabilities of the existing taxiway system, the terminal area, the airport vehicular circulation system, the ground access system and other support systems to meet requirements generated by the aviation demand forecast.

The capacity of Lambert has not been established because this study did not go beyond the year 1965 and it does not address planning that may be needed beyond that date.

The study points out that expansion of Lambert will bring with it certain adverse environmental impacts, specifically in the areas of continuation of night and day noise and air pollution.

The report also makes recommendations for land use patterns and other measures for mitigation of some of the adverse impacts.

Highlights include:
Forecast of Aviation Demand:

By ARVEN H. SAUNDERS
Executive Director
St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority

We have initiated a detailed evaluation of the Ralph M. Parsons Co. proposals to increase the capacity of Lambert Field within its basic existing boundaries.

Prior to such evaluation, study of the preliminary Parsons report form shows a few areas that should be evaluated by the airport authority.

The full Parsons master plan report:

Scheduled air carrier passenger enplanements are expected to increase from 3.2 million passengers in 1973 to 11.5 million in 1985.

Unconstrained future general aviation demand is estimated at 11,000 flights for non-stop flights to Europe and Hawaii and a primary landing runway of 10,000 feet.

Plans for general aviation growth to be accommodated at other airports in the area.

Develop a two-lane taxiway system to minimize taxiway delays and four or five high-speed taxiway exits in each direction from the landing runway.

Terminal Area:
To meet 1995 requirements, development of a new terminal in the area south of the parallel runways and to the southeast of the existing terminal.

Provide all-weather aircraft boarding by passengers through loading bridges from second-level concourses at the new terminal.

Connect the proposed three units of the new terminal to each other and to the existing terminal by a people-mover system.

The new parking facility should be integrated with the existing parking areas and provide access to the new terminal by pedestrian bridges.

General Aviation:
Allow a continuation of general aviation operations at Lambert up to the limits of the 3.2 million passengers, particularly the business-jet type of activity, and a reduction in light single and twin-engine aircraft operations.

The St. Louis metropolitan area has 29 airports, many of which appear capable of improvement and expansion to economically accommodate general aviation growth.

Consideration should be given to acquiring and expanding one or more existing general aviation airports, or acquiring a site to develop a new general aviation airport. If general aviation is not accommodated at other airports, then both general aviation and air carrier traffic at Lambert would suffer.

Ancillary Facilities:
Relocate air cargo facilities to the southeast corner of the airport by 1985.

Locate the post office site southeast of the proposed cargo area. This site will share a common service road on the air side with the proposed cargo facilities, which will connect these facilities to the terminal apron.

Retain National Guard facilities in their current locations.

Ground Access:
The present passenger terminal access system will be replaced by a new system within the next decade.

The proposed highway interchange program should provide access to three times as many freeway and highway lanes serving the vicinity of the airport by 1985 as exist under present conditions and will be adequate to accommodate projected traffic increases from airport-related traffic in the immediate vicinity of the airport in 1995 and for some time thereafter.

Develop a new access and circulation system that separates various traffic functions on specialized road systems.

Develop a complete ring road system of surface arterials to supplement the primary freeway system, extending the south frontage road across Interstate 70 to join the north frontage road and widening the south frontage road.

Realign and widen Brown Road east of the airport runway extension.

Construction Staging and Developing Costs:
The estimated total cost of developing Lambert is $145 million. The estimated St. Louis Airport Authority, FAA and tenant shares of this cost are $24 million, $23 million and $98 million, respectively.

Develop a 10,000-foot north runway 12L-30R to 1980 to increase the runway system capacity and to reduce delay costs. Extend south runway 12R-30L to 11,000 feet for non-stop service to overseas destinations by 1980.

Construct the first cargo facility element by 1980 to allow expansion of the parking garage.

Construct highway access connections to the Interstate-70 interchange upon its completion around 1980.

Construct the first phase of the proposed new passenger terminal by 1985.

What are the reasons for Pollution:
Aircraft noise is expected to reduce by 22 per cent by 1985 from current levels because of federal regulations on acoustical modifications of aircraft engines. However, a return to 1974 noise levels will occur by 1985 because of progressive gradual increases in daily operations. Additional relief may be provided by the use of noise abatement flight procedures, such as the two-segment landing approach.

Reductions in community annoyance by noise will have to be accomplished by changing land-use patterns in the airport environs over time.

The airport may exert a significant localized impact on the air quality levels for one major air pollutant, hydrocarbons. The situation will remain severe until 1990, when the effects of pollution controls installed on jet engines manufactured after 1978 will significantly be felt.

Airport Communities Overview:
Through the open planning process, the communities have expressed a preference for the retention of Lambert at its present location.

Residential development in north county will take two forms: higher-density apartments or condominiums as redevelopment in existing residential neighborhoods and low low-density single-family homes in open areas to the west and north of existing development.

Cooperative planning programs should be undertaken between the airport communities and the airport in order to better understand mutual problems and plan for compatibility of land uses.

What are the reasons for provided in this area when all the new terminals required more?

Previous studies indicate the need for 100 acres in the 1980s and ultimately 300-400 acres for cargo requirements.

What are the reasons for believing that 30 acres will be adequate?

These are some of the questions that we will be using to test the airport's response for suitability and their feasibility for extending the life of Lambert Field.

To the Editor:

The governor's veto of House Bill 2715 is a stinging blow to the elderly and disabled citizens of Illinois who already are struggling to survive the double squeeze of inflation and recession.

The state had an excellent opportunity to extend a helping hand to those forced to live on small fixed incomes. Instead, it has turned its back to their needs in a time of great personal crisis.

We formed a coalition of the 16 major senior citizens organizations in Illinois because we believed immediate action was essential if seniors were to cope with the worsening economy and its effect on their lives.

In a few short weeks before the November legislative session, more than 120,000 individual seniors agreed with us as they joined our statewide campaign to win sales tax relief before the end of the year.

The legislature heard this united and urgent cry for help, recognized an emergency, and responded with emergency action. The financial situation of the 450,000 seniors who would have benefited from House Bill 2715 is no better today—in fact, it is worse—than it was in 1973.

Now, nearly eight weeks later, after five other major pieces of legislation have been acted on, and after it is too late for a veto override, the bill is still in committee. The thousands of Illinois seniors for the additional tax benefits so urgently needed in 1975.

The program of annual cash rebates on sales taxes for food, fuel, clothing and medicine would have been effective Jan. 1 of this year. By this time, many would already have applied and some would have received the extra dollars.

The elderly and handicapped must now wait until at least the beginning of 1976 before any new relief is in sight.

It is fine to talk about economy and limiting spending.

GI home loan interest down

The maximum interest rate on Veterans Administration GI home loans dropped from 9 per cent to 8.5 per cent effective last week, it was announced Friday by Richard L. Roubesh, administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Roubesh, who established the lower VA rate after consultation with the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, noted that the reduction was the second since Nov. 24, when the maximum interest rate was 9.5 per cent.

The new 8.5 per cent rate also will apply to FHA home loans, he added.

The 8.5 per cent rate is the lowest since April 1974, when the rate was dropped from 9.25 to 8.5 per cent. It rose to 9 per cent last July and 9.5 per cent in August, and then was cut to 9 per cent effective Nov. 25.

The half-per cent decrease would mean as much as $9.50 per month savings to the typical veteran home buyer, and over the 30-year life of a $27,500 VA loan, the total saving could be as much as $3,535.

The administrator said the VA home loan market was greatly expanded under legislation approved by the President Dec. 31, when more than four million veterans—whose GI home loans have been paid in full and the home disposed of—became potentially eligible for new loans guaranteed by VA.

The legislation also increased the maximum VA loan guarantee amount from $12,500 to $17,500, authorized loans for the purchase of mobile home lots, increased the amount of mobile home loans, and broadened the possibilities for guaranteeing loans on one-family condominiums.

Nameoki drainage job ok'd

Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Albert Bell Monday night agreed to purchase enough pipe to place an underground drainage line along a section of Vine Street which presently has a large culvert in front of several homes.

Work to install an underground drainage line along the block between Robert Street and Orville Avenue on Vine Street will begin this spring, Bell said.

Third Precinct Democratic Committeeman Joe Garcia requested at Monday night's regular Town Board of Auditors meeting that the pipe be ordered. Garcia told the board that Bell had been requested before to improve the Vine Street drainage in that block and had said he did not have the money.

Garcia contended the ditch is as deep as three and four feet in places. Bell responded that the ditch is only about two feet deep and said there are "other people with deeper ditches than that. If you can't do it for everybody, how can you do it for one?"

Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell commented he did not feel the issue was one of money and speaking of general drainage problems, told Bell, "You should do it as you can afford it until it is all done properly."

Whitsell contended the money is available in the hard road and general road funds and the highway department's revenue sharing fund.

Referring to a dispute involving Whitsell's refusal to recommend payment of other highway department bills, Bell responded, "What good is it if you won't approve paying the bills?"

Whitsell responded that the highway commissioner's bills are to be approved only by the county superintendent of highways, not by the township supervisor.

Bell again stated he felt he should not help one area if he can't provide drainage assistance for all those in need. "I believe in the treatment of everybody the same," he commented. Whitsell answered, "That is your decision."

Whitsell said he does not have the authority to order the highway commissioner to do work. He added he does have several free employees under the Manpower Development Program who can do drainage work, but said he can't have them do work along the roads which are in the jurisdiction of the highway department's union.

Auditor Norman Hessler agreed, saying, "Manpower Development Program people can't take work away from the highway department employees' union. They could not solve road problems."

The drainage problem on Vine Street was created when the highway department installed a 15-inch underground pipe along Vine Street between Orville and Miracle avenues in 1973.

A 15-inch pipe drains into that area and the new 15-inch pipe carries the water away, but the block in question remains between the two and the water backs up in the culvert.

When the pipe was installed in 1972, the street department enlarged the culverts under the driveways between Robert Street and Orville Avenue in an attempt to keep the water moving. Garcia contended the work was unsuccessful and water backs up in the culvert.

Bell estimated the pipe could cost as much as $1,500, but agreed to use revenue sharing funds for it. The auditors voted unanimously to have him purchase the pipe this winter and install it in the spring.

"Officer Friendly" program praised

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

The "Officer Friendly" program has been the most successful police program ever started in Granite City. Chief of Police Ronald Veizer told the Breakfast Kiwanis Club at its meeting in Charlie's Restaurant.

"I feel this program has done more to help protect our children and bring about a better understanding of police work than any other," Veizer commented.

He said the police department has a tighter patrol schedule throughout the city and the response time to calls has decreased. This should cause an overall reduction in crime. Veizer remarked, "One bad point of the increased patrol is that we had to go to one-man cars, and for the officer's safety this is not the best, nor is it recommended."

He said the Granite City Police Department has 48 sworn officers, five civilian dispatchers, three clerks, 13 vehicles with radios and emergency equipment, two tri-cars and one "getabout" for servicing parking meters.

Chief Veizer said that the reorganization of the department that took place a few months ago is "beginning to pay off" in more efficient police services.

He explained the department is made up of three divisions, each headed by a captain. The divisions are the patrol division, consisting of four lieutenants, eight sergeants and 25 patrolmen. These make up the uniformed force that patrols the city seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

The investigation division has four detectives and a juvenile officer while the service division includes the radio dispatchers and is responsible for all maintenance of equipment. The three division captains report to a lieutenant-colonel in charge of operations.

The chief told the club that the most common crime is the house burglary. Burglaries make up about 74 per cent of the crimes in Granite City, he said.

He recommended the type of locks to use and suggested that residents leave lights on when away, and have a neighbor check the house. Chief Veizer said that it is a good idea to have a neighbor take the phone off the hook for a few minutes two or three times a day.

The chief explained that a professional burglar frequently will drive by a neighborhood, pick out a house, get the address, check a directory for the phone number and call it. If no one answers, he assumes no one is home, but if he gets a busy signal he will look for other victims.

Asked about the narcotic problem, Chief Veizer said, "It is bad in our area. With the creation of the new Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG), local police should get some help in controlling street pushers and suppliers."

Norman Kinder president of the club was the program chairman.

Smith overseas truck frame shipments

Officials of A. O. Smith Corp. have announced that the company will supply American-made chassis frame components for European heavy truck production.

The company will provide frame side members and cross members for Ford Motor Co., Ltd. The British subsidiary of Ford Motor Co.

These new major truck components will be used in the production of Ford's new H series, a line of super heavy-duty vehicles available in Europe in early 1975. The new trucks will be used for transcontinental service.

This marks the first use of a very high-strength type of steel for the frame side members of a European-made vehicle, Paul W. Smaglick, general sales manager for A. O. Smith's Automotive Division, reports. Side members form the backbone of a truck.

A unique heat-treating process invented and developed by A. O. Smith die quenches low alloy steel to provide high strength (110,000 pounds per square inch minimum yield) and improves fatigue properties.

This offers truck designers the potential of lighter, more durable, and less costly frames, A. O. Smith reports. It has used the process since 1959.

More than 2,000 sets of components are expected to be shipped in the first year of an agreement with Ford, Smaglick said. Financial details were not disclosed.

A set consists of two side rails and a number of cross members. The side rails measure between 18 and 31 feet long and weigh up to 540 pounds.

The components will be packaged in special shipping containers that will be sent by rail from Milwaukee to New York, and by ship from New York to Ford's plant in Amsterdam, where the H series trucks will be assembled. The overall project will be administered through the Ford Motor Co., Ltd. offices in London.

Smaglick said the project has been in development since an initial inquiry was made by Ford more than 15 months ago.

Parts were provided for assembling special test vehicles, which were driven for more than one million miles by leading European fleets.

"All phases of the frame program were developed in close coordination with Ford Motor Co., Ltd.," Smaglick said.

"This included engineering and design aspects of the frame components as well as the logistic details involved in shipping from the Middle West of the United States to the middle of Europe."

He added that the overseas agreement brings a new dimension to A. O. Smith's relationship with Ford.

The companies began working together in 1966 when Henry Ford ordered an unprecedented 10,000 automotive frames from Arthur O. Smith, for whom the company is named. To handle what was at that time a huge order, A. O. Smith developed the first techniques for mass producing automotive frames.

Today, A. O. Smith Corporation is the world's leading producer of automotive and truck frames. Automotive component manufacturing plants are located in Milwaukee and Granite City. A. O. Smith, with its subsidiaries, is a widely diversified manufacturer of electric motors, meter systems, auto and truck frames, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, water heater equipment, elevators and other products.

GSC Credit Union assets $12 million

Assets exceeding $12 million were cited by Granite City Steel Credit Union Manager Joe Lucido as 2,300 attended its annual dinner meeting this week at OCHS South.

Lucido reported the credit union now has assets of $12,566,000 and loaned $9,027,000 to members during 1974. Dividends paid to the 7,403 members totaled $460,879, it was reported.

Reports also were given by Earl Baker, chairman of the credit committee, and John Graham, chairman of the supervisory committee.

The members retained all six directors who were up for reelection. They are Leo Siz, Robert Kelly, Charles King, Russell Robinson, Bert Houston and Alex Skubash. Baker and Gerald Griffith were re-elected to the five member credit committee.
